SPORTS STORE GUTTED

Store manager, John Rushworth, and manager of the repair department, John Iacono, inspect burned skis in the burned-out interior of The Seasons Ski and Sports Shop at 40 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo. The fire, which was reported by neighbors at 7:18 p.m. yesterday, did damage estimated at $15,000 to the building and an undetermined amount of damage to the contents including sleeping bags and other highly flammable types of sporting equipment. Firemen fought the stubborn blaze for three hours. The cause remains to be determined.

Bridge Directors Approve 50 Per Cent Boost In Toll

75-Cent Charge To Be Effective On March 1

Golden Gate Bridge auto tolls will go to 75 cents March 1, the Golden Gate Bridge District board voted today.

The 12-3 vote caught opponents by surprise and resulted in stormy parliamentary maneuvering.

Before the vote, Board President Stephan C. Leonoudakis relinquished the chair to read a lengthy speech urging the raise.

The increase which was recommended by the board's finance and audit committee last May, has been on the agenda as a continued item for every meeting since September.

San Francisco supervisors Robert A. Gonzales and John L. Molinari objected that they were being taken by surprise while Leonoudakis "had had time to write a Gettysburg Address before the meeting."

Gonzales moved to delay the vote to Feb. 22. His motion lost by a 12-3 vote.

Immediately after the vote to raise tolls, Director Lowell Edington moved reconsideration of the increase, but asked everyone who voted for the increase to vote "no" on his motion. That succeeded 12-3, thus blocking Gonzales from further delaying attempts.

Gonzales and Molinari were joined by fellow Supervisor Peter Tamaras in opposing the higher tolls. Gonzales said the toll soon will have to go to $1 and he opposed an interim raise as ineffective.

Both Gonzales and Molinari raised the old issue of whether they should be forced to carry out the directives of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, since they disagree with the majority who support the raise in tolls.

They pointed out that legislation is pending which would free them in their votes on the bridge district board.

The hour-long argument over the raise in tolls, which came out of order on the board's agenda at the request of Director Edwin M. Fraser pushed aside discussion of possible reduction in tolls for car pools.

That was to come up later today.

Leonoudakis recalled for the board that both the Golden Gate Bridge and the San Francisco Bay Bridge were originally intended to become toll-free after construction debts were paid.

He noted that both bridges are now paying for transit construction to offset automobile congestion. He said, "Since the automobile has created problems, it must, of necessity, share in the solution.

"To that unforunate man who must drive his car every day I say, we are not discriminating against or punishing him with a toll increase." The toll hike will lessen bridge traffic by expanding the district's transit program, Leonoudakis said.

The toll hike will raise $4 million a year in additional revenue needed to offset increasing deficits in operating the district's bus and ferry system.

Expansion of the transit system has been stymied by the impasse over the toll increase.

The increase has been supported by Marin's three representatives on the bridge board, Supervisor Michael Wornum, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini and Dean M. Meyer of Mill Valley.

All three voted for the increase today.

San Anselmo's Merchants Fear Sewer Work Impact

By NELS JOHNSON

San Anselmo merchants, warning that second-phase installation of a sewer trunkline through the city next summer could suck the lifeblood from the downtown business district, yesterday cast a cold eye on the project.

Grim-faced merchants, bitterly recalling months-long delays that plagued initial stages of the project last year, applauded a colleague who urged businessmen to adopt a new "militant outlook" in monitoring plans for the pipeline installation.

The businessmen have claimed that sales loss last year ranged from 10 per cent in some cases to 40 per cent in others, because of the torn up streets.

Occasion for the outpouring of pessimism was a meeting of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce and Ross Valley Sanitary District engineer Warren E. Nute, who appeared to explain plans for the second phase of the district project.

The 36-inch diameter trunkline, ordered by the state Regional Water Quality Control Board to eliminate bypass pipes which pump raw sewage into local creeks, replaces 21-inch pipe installed in the 1920s.

Initial phases of the project, which last year required trenching along lower San Anselmo Avenue and portions of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the downtown area, continued nearly two months past an announced completion date, due to a poorly written contract, cave-ins, chaotic jumbles of utility lines, underground water and creekbeds.

Merchants' concern yesterday was spiced by a revelation from Nute that the second-phase project, which last year had been estimated to require only two weeks to complete, will actually require about 12 weeks.

Nute said a longer timetable is needed since last year's burdensome "trenching" process has been largely scrapped in favor of more time consuming

Composites In Hearst Kidnap Out

BERKELEY (UPI) — The FBI today released composite drawings of three of the suspects in the kidnaping of 19-year-old Patricia Hearst, granddaughter of the late newspaper giant William Randolph Hearst.

The eight by 10-inch glossy photographs of the pencil drawings of two black men and a white woman were distributed to news media.

The drawing of the white woman showed a girl with shoulder length, light, straight hair. One of the black men had a mustache and beard, heavy eyebrows and a natural haircut which extends below his ears. The other man had a shorter natural cut and protruding ridges above his eyes. All three looked to be in their 20's.

FBI special agent in charge Charles W. Bates said the FBI would do nothing to jeopardize Miss Hearst's safety while tracking down the terrorist organization which claimed yesterday it holds the young heiress captive.

"Our first consideration is the safety of the girl," Bates said.

Skylab Crew Returns To End A Space Era

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The last Skylab astronauts landed in the Pacific today and were reported in very good shape from man's longest spaceflight, an 84-day, 34.5 million mile journey that opened the way for a trip someday to Mars.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue splashed down only 6,000 yards from this veteran recovery ship at 11:17 a.m. EDT and were hoisted aboard 39 minutes later. The New Orleans was 176 miles southwest of San Diego.

"It's good to be back," said Carr, commander of the marathon Skylab 3 mission which began last November. "Nice to be home," Gibson said.

The three astronauts got a quick medical checkup inside their seared capsule and then climbed, smiling and waving, onto a platform. They walked a bit wobbly to nearby chairs on a truck which carried them to a nearby laboratory for 6 ½ hours of detailed medical tests.

"The crew is obviously very, very good," said a shipboard spokesman after conferring with NASA flight surgeon Dr. Jerry Hordinsky. "They're a little shaky but in fine shape."

The astronauts landed in unusually gentle seas and there was no indication that they had experienced some of the seasickness symptoms exhibited by their predecessors.

Before going aboard the New Orleans, the pilots took their pulse rates to see how well they were adjusting to the sudden exposure to gravity after going without it for nearly three months. They wore special

Judge Approves Jury's $21,000 Study Request

A request for $21,000 from the Marin County Grand Jury for a study of "county government processes" was approved yesterday by a superior court judge, thus overriding objections from county supervisors.

Presiding Judge E. Warren McGuire said today he approved the request because he agreed with the need for such a study as outlined by the grand jury.

On Tuesday, county supervisors voted 3-to-2 to oppose the expenditure which was before them merely as a formality since McGuire had sole authority to approve or disapprove.

Purpose of the study has not been made clear. Grand jury members say it is to study "the county government processes" — though not specifically fiscal matters.

They tentatively plan to hire the San Francisco firm of Peat, Marwick and Mitchell, certified public accountants.

In a letter last week to supervisors, F. Charles Ruegg, grand jury foreman, said the study will focus on department heads and top level management personnel.

Supervisors Robert A. Roumiguiere and Arnold M. Baptiste supported the expenditure. Both are members of the county management committee which voted unanimously Tuesday to work with the grand jury.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, a member of the committee along with other key county officials, said a letter will be forwarded to the grand jury today asking it to meet with the committee.

He said the grand jury's study might overlap other studies planned or already under way and they should be coordinated.

"I think we all want the most value for the taxpayers from the $21,000," he said, adding "it's under a cloud" that should be cleared up.

Arrests On Drunken Driving Are Up

Arrests on drunken driving in Marin during January were 240, an increase of 53 over the same period last year, according to jail statistics reported by the Alcohol Information Committee.

With the exception of December, when 261 arrests were made, the January total is well above last year's monthly arrest average of 200, the panel said.

$10.3 Million Larkspur Ferry Plan Wins Bay Agency Support

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The Golden Gate Bridge District's plan for a $10.3 million ferry terminal at Larkspur yesterday cleared a major hurdle with unanimous approval by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Despite the misgivings of one commissioner that the expanded ferry system "is going to be the financial ruination of the bridge district," the commission found "the public benefits from the proposed project would clearly exceed any public detriment."

Four pages of detailed conditions to reestablish the nearby Muzzi property as a marsh and minimize environmental damage from construction of the terminal and dredging of the channel apparently satisfied most conservationists who had opposed the project.

San Francisco Supervisor Quentin L. Kopp, who offered the dire prediction the ferry system will break the district, won approval of a condition that the terminal also must be connected to sewage treatment facilities of the Ross Valley Sanitary District.

He also attempted to add a condition the terminal must be

Roumiguiere Seeks Election As Marin County Supervisor

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, appointed in 1972 to fill the unexpired term of the late John F. McInnis, announced today he will run for election in June.

Roumiguiere, whose First District covers most of San Rafael and the entire Las Gallinas Valley, plans to hold a campaign kickoff breakfast Monday at the Holiday Inn.

During his 17 months in office, Roumiguiere said, he has worked "to preserve and enhance open space and recreational areas, improve county services and personnel management, trim county expenses and encourage careful growth of both the residential and commercial segments of the county."

Besides serving on the board of supervisors, he is a director of the county open space district, transit district, retirement board, San Rafael Sanitation District and state Scenic Highway Commission.

He said he has worked as a "full-time supervisor" devoting 60 to 70 hours a week to county business. His county salary is $16,800 per year.

ROBERT A. ROUMIGUIERE
Seeks reelection

The 48-year-old supervisor listed his major accomplishments as spearheading a drive for open space acquisition of the San Pedro Ridge, accelerating development of the John McInnis Park, negotiating the purchase of 32 acres of waterfront land on Gallinas Creek and formation of a management committee to improve county efficiency.

He and his wife, Barbara, have five children and live at 18 Culloden Park Road in San Rafael.

Roumiguiere is vice president of A. R. Roumiguiere Inc., a San Rafael real estate firm. He has been active in many community, civic and business organizations over the last 20 years.

He attended public schools in Marin County and later graduated from the California State Polytechnic University at San Luis Obispo with a degree in dairy husbandry.

During World War II, he served with the Navy Seabees.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Military Coup In Upper Volta

Military Coup In Upper Volta (UPI) — The armed forces seized power in a peaceful coup today, suspended the constitution and dissolved parliament in this West African nation.

Lamizana

Gen. Sangoule Lamizana, 58, president of this former French colony, made the announcement in a nationwide radio message. He immediately placed the landlocked country under curfew.

Upper Volta borders on Mali, Niger, Ghana and the Ivory Coast.

Lamizana said, "With the power of the armed forces, the constitution of 1970 is herewith suspended, the National Assembly is dissolved and political activities are formally banned."

Claims Victory

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Dick Wilson, a crew-cut former plumber, today won victory over militant Indian leader Russell Means in their pitched battle for the presidency of the Oglala Sioux tribe.

The elated Wilson, a decided underdog, proclaimed "a new destiny for American Indians" as the vote swung slowly into his column.

Wilson, 39, claimed victory well ahead of the final election announcement by David O. Brewer, head of the Tribal Election Board.

Brewer said the final unofficial count was 1,709 for Wilson and 1,530 for Means. It is the first time an incumbent has won reelection on the big reservation.

Law Broken?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration has broken a law by arranging to lend the Soviet Union at least $500 million at 6 per cent interest without telling Congress, a Republican senator charged today.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., made the charge in a speech prepared for delivery on the Senate floor, noting that an act of Congress requires the Secretary of State to transmit to Congress the text of any agreement the United States signs that is not a treaty.

Case said the loans from the U.S. Export-Import Bank could reach a total of $8.5 billion.

Case said that at his request, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has asked for a full explanation from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Case said the deal was signed Oct. 18, 1972, as a followup to summit meetings between the two countries.

POW Exchanges

SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon government airlifted 72 captives to Viet Cong territory today, starting the final round of prisoner exchanges delayed by nearly a year of bickering.

On the battlefield, the South Vietnamese command reported 75 Communist truce violations between dawn yesterday and sunup today, raising to 36,501 the number of alleged attacks since the signing of the Jan. 28 cease-fire pact.

The freed prisoners, flanked by a pair of military policemen, walked silently in groups of eight to the nine Huey helicopters for a 50-minute flight to Viet Cong territory.

Dressed alike in black pajamas and sandals, the 68 men and four women clambered aboard the helicopters for their flight from Bien Hoa, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, to the Viet Cong capital of Loc Ninh, 60 miles to the north.

Pompidou Sick

PARIS (UPI) — The ill health of President GeorgesPompidou set off speculation today that the 63-year-old French leader might resign before the end of his term in 1976.

Dr. Jean Vignalou, Pompidou's private physician, issued a health bulletin yesterday, saying the president had infectious influenza with a high fever and would have to stay in bed "for a few days."

It was the first time a formal statement on Pompidou's health has been issued and quickly fueled speculation he might step down.

Recapture Outpost

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops using bayonets, knives and bare hands as well as rifles and machineguns killed 99 rebel troops and recaptured a strategic outpost 10 miles southwest of the capital, field reporters said today.

The recapture of the Kopong Tuol garrison yesterday, which was overrun by the rebels 18 days ago, was believed to have helped stem a rebel offensive, which began three weeks ago.

Field reporters said government troops killed 79 rebels in the fight for the outpost, then killed another 20 as they fled across rice paddies to the south. Government losses were not given.

Secret Gun Ring

BELFAST (UPI) — Detectives launched a campaign today to crack an extensive arms manufacturing ring operated secretly by Protestant extremists in Belfast's foundries.

Police sources said hundreds of crude but effective pistols and even light machine guns were being made in secret by industrial workers.

The sources said detectives launched the latest search campaign after police found 23 locally made pistols yesterday in a vacant house overlooking a Belfast foundry.

An Oil Threat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet government has "leaned" on Iceland, threatening to stop sending oil to the tiny North Atlantic state unless it orders the United States military out of bases the Pentagon considers the keystone to Atlantic defenses, administration sources said today.

One source called the Soviet threat "a clear example of how the Arab oil boycott has ramifications we haven't even begun to consider. In the era of cheap, ample oil, Moscow could never have leaned on a country like this."

The sources said the Soviet action was an "implied threat" so that if the Icelanders called Moscow's bluff, the Soviets could back away and claim to have been misunderstood.

Energy Boss Turns Actor For A Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon today got a new job — Hollywood actor.

Simon and Kirk Douglas made a four-minute film on energy conservation that will be shown soon in movie theaters around the nation.

House Will Soon Learn Nixon Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee apparently will soon learn how much President Nixon will cooperate with its inquiry into his possible impeachment.

Chief counsels for the inquiry were instructed by the committee leadership yesterday to honor a request by Nixon's special Watergate counsel, James D. St. Clair, for lawyers for both sides to get together.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the date of the meeting between St. Clair and Special Counsel John M. Doar and GOP Counsel Albert E. Jenner had not been arranged but they "will be doing so promptly."

The extent of Nixon's cooperation with the committee charged with determining whether there are grounds for impeaching him has been in doubt since Nixon's State of the Union address Jan. 30 when he said he would honor precedent and not weaken the presidency.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., ranking GOP committee member said he was pleased with St. Clair's letter and was confident the meeting of the two groups would "be very productive."

On Tuesday St. Clair sent a letter to Rodino saying, "The President has instructed me to advise you that I am to make myself available to consult with you or your special counsel, Mr. John M. Doar...I will be pleased to confer with you or your counsel at any time that you or he may desire."

Doar answered with a hand-delivered letter that Rodino had told him "we would be in touch with you further" after the committee's Thursday meeting. Doar was told at the meeting to set a date with St. Clair.

Jenner described the requested get-together as a routine meeting, one normally held between lawyers for both sides.

Yoeman Confirms Passing Secret Security Documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Navy yeoman confirmed yesterday that he gave secret documents from the National Security Council where he worked to unnamed military superiors.

But Yeoman Charles E. Radford denied he gathered White House documents on his own initiative. His denial, in a CBS Evening News interview, apparently contradicted Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who blamed Radford's actions on overzealousness.

Interviewed in Oregon, Radford refused to answer a direct question about whom he gave the files to. But he volunteered, "It was not done on my own initiative."

Moorer has said he "never issued any instructions, or gave any orders, either directly or implied, to anyone to provide to me unauthorized information."

Moorer said, "I can't understand why he (Radford) would do such a thing, although, as has been said by others, he was overzealous."

Radford allegedly gathered the documents from the National Security Council, headed by Henry A. Kissinger, and passed them to Moorer.

Asked by CBS if such spying was normal, Radford said, "I don't know if it's uncommon in Washington, I have no idea what's uncommon in Washington — if anything."

Jaworski Gets Watergate Wish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee, bowing to the wishes of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, has voted to delay its final report for three months, until May 28.

At the same time, the committee will ask the Senate to extend its life three months from its current Feb. 28 deadline and to appropriate an additional $300,000 for the committee's work. The committee already has received $1.5 million from the Senate.

At an executive session of the committee yesterday, Sen. Howard Baker asked that a new probe be launched into the CIA's involvement in the Watergate scandal.

Baker, after asking the committee staff to leave the meeting, asked for a probe into charges the CIA was more deeply involved in the Watergate break-in and bugging than has been testified to so far, informed sources reported.

While committee members were hesitant to comment, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., said "There was an involvement, there will be a continuing scrutiny to see if there was more."

The decision to delay the final report came one week after Jaworski requested such a delay, fearing his prosecution of defendants in the case would be prejudiced by publicity.

Committee sources said Jaworski indicated major indictments in the case could come early next week.

Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., chairman of the panel, cided to delay the report because the defendants could claim it caused prejudicial pretrial publicity. He said by the time the report is issued in May, he expects most of the defendants will have entered guilty pleas.

Ervin said he expects "many" guilty pleas based on the pattern set by earlier defendants such as Jeb Stuart Magruder, Frederick C. Larue and John W. Dean III.

In other action the committee voted to turn "everything" including its computerized file of Watergate evidence, over to the House Judiciary Committee which is now studing the possible impeachment of President Nixon.

The question of continued public hearings by the committee was not discussed in the two and a half hour session, Ervin said.

FERRY

served by the Marin Municipal Water District — a sticky issue in light of the water district's moratorium on new connections — but the commission's staff said it has no jurisdiction over this issue.

Detailing the conditions, Executive Director Charles R. Roberts said "I think we've got them (bridge district) completely tied up with these conditions."

David Miller, attorney for the bridge district, told newsmen all the conditions were acceptable to the district, and that none posed any problem, including one that construction of the terminal cannot start until the district has filed court proceedings to acquire the 530-acre Muzzi property. The new marsh will cover 125 acres.

Other conditions dealt with monitoring and maintaining the new marsh for at least five years and providing public pathways from 10 to 80 feet wide around the Muzzi property and terminal area. The 25-acre terminal site is on the north side of the mouth of Corte Madera Creek, and the Muzzi land is on Corte Madera's bayfront.

Miller said the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration must approve plans to restore the marsh before the court proceedings can be filed, but predicted approval will come by the end of the month. The approval is required because the government is paying for two-thirds of the ferry project.

He noted that approval of the dredging still is needed from Regional Water Quality Control Board, Army Corps of Engineers and State Lands Commission. These approvals will take two to three months to get, he said.

If bridge directors approve a contract to redesign the terminal at their Feb. 22 meeting, he said, construction could begin by July and be completed a year later.

The redesign work has been proposed by district consultants to cut the cost of the terminal from $8.8 million to $6.9 million. With dredging, land purchase and engineering, the project now stands at $10.3 million.

Of some 1.6 million cubic yards of mud to be dredged, about 750,000 will go on the Muzzi property behind permanent dikes because it is too contaminated to dump in the bay. The rest will go off Alcatraz.

Roberts said disposal sites for mud to be dredged in the future as the channel silts in had not been determined, but the spoils probably would be dumped off Alcatraz. There was no discussion of where future spoils will go if they also are found too contaminated to dump in the bay. Present regulations require such polluted mud to be dumped either on shore or beyond the 100-fathom line far outside the Golden Gate, both costly disposal methods.

Noting the project includes some dredging for the ferry turning basin, Roberts said the net effect will be to increase the surface of the bay by .77 of an acre.

The Town of Corte Madera appealed unsuccessfully for a condition that the bridge district be liable for any problems with dikes on the Muzzi property, but Roberts said the commission had no jurisdiction over this. He noted the BCDC engineering criteria review board had found the dike system to be sound.

Simon Puts Damper On Truck Fuel Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal energy chief William Simon today all but ruled out a diesel fuel price rollback demanded by striking truck drivers as part of an agreement the government hoped would start the big rigs rolling again.

Independent drivers split today over accepting the government agreement hammered out yesterday. A large segment of the loosely-organized truckers still demanded a rollback.

But, Simon said, "a rollback in itself is counterproductive. . . just the most unproductive thing in the world" because it would discourage domestic exploration and exploitation of new oil resources."

The Senate, stalled over a rollback provision introduced by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., put off a vote on the emergency energy act until Feb. 19 —after it returns from a Lincoln's birthday vacation. The bill would give President Nixon sweeping powers to deal with the energy crisis.

Nixon summoned top administration officials to the White House for a late-morning meeting to review the trucking situation and get an updated report on the outlook for increased operations by the striking drivers.

A split in the ranks of the independent truck drivers over acceptance of a government settlement offer today triggered new violence in the nine-day-old drivers' strike.

Even so, there were indications that more trucks were on the road than at any time this week and that truck stop business was returning to normal.

Two truck drivers were shot and wounded, one critically, in Ohio early today. In Pennsylvania, a truck traveling on Route 22 near Hollidaysburg was struck by a bullet fired from a passing car. The slug failed to penetrate the cab and the driver was not injured.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol reported three trucks fired on during the night. Two lumber trucks were hit by bullets and a third one was fired on by two white men armed with shotguns. No one was injured.

Two drivers have been killed thus far as a result of violence connected with the strike by drivers for lower fuel costs and higher freight rates.

Meanwhile, the oil minister of Algeria said today his country wants to re-establish normal oil supplies to the United States, but reiterated the Arab embargo will not be lifted until Israel evacuates all territory occupied during the 1967 Mideast war.

Belaid Abdessalam said he was surprised to hear Secretary of State Henry Kissinger describe the continued oil embargo as "blackmail." He said that Algeria and other Arab nations had been assured the United States was "working actively to assure peace in the Mideast."

French Have New Movie Favorite

PARIS (UPI) — "The Adventures of Rabbi Jacob" has replaced "Last Tango in Paris" as the alltime top box office moneymaker in France.

The harum-scarum comedy about Arabs and Jews has brought in more than $5 million in the 14 weeks it has been on the screen, the newspaper France-Soir said.

That beat the $4.4 million that Last Tango brought in during 45 weeks, France-Soir said.

Youth Critical From Accident

A 13-year-old Tiburon boy was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital after colliding with a truck yesterday while riding a bicycle.

According to Tiburon police, William Walker, of 256 Esperanza Street, was southbound on Esperanza at 8 a.m. when he turned right into Mar West Street and hit a truck driven by Charles Warren Pruett of 1925 Straits View Drive, Tiburon.

Bridgeway Work Plan Is Selected

Sausalito city officials have agreed on a scaled-down version of a street-widening and beautification plan for downtown Bridgeway.

They chose a cheaper material for paving sidewalks and lopped new light standards from architect Donal Olsen's original plan.

Meeting with members of the city council and community appearances advisory board Wednesday, Olsen presented five possible approaches, ranging in cost from $245 a running foot to $160 a running foot. The project will be financed through assessment of property owners.

The cheapest plan was decided on. It features a concrete aggregate material for sidewalks, which will be widened to a minimum of 14 feet, rather than colored paving stones. It also eliminates fancy, copper-plated light standards. Present street lights will be retained, with some new lights added where needed, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

Olson was to meet with city staff today to discuss material for sidewalk borders and crosswalks for the project, which includes downtown Bridgeway and most of Princess and El Portal streets.

Construction is expected to begin following final approval of revised plans by the city council within two weeks, McKenzie said.

KIDNAP

ground newspaper yesterday. It said the terrorist group, which earlier claimed the murder of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster last Nov. 6, was holding Miss Hearst in "protective custody". The letter said she would be killed if attempts were made to rescue her.

Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, and her mother waited anxiously along with other family members for further contact from the SLA. The first letter made no ransom demands, but it said further communications would follow and enclosed a credit card Miss Hearst had been using.

The newspaper, the Berkeley Barb, and station KPFA both said there were no further communications in their mail this morning.

Bates said the FBI would abide by the family's wishes in pursuing its investigation.

"If there's a demand for ransom, we can cover and grab (the suspects), or we can cover and follow them," he said. "If the family says do not cover at all, we absolutely will not cover."

Bates said witnesses were unable to give good enough descriptions of the two, and possibly three, other suspects believed involved in the abduction.

Asked if he thought the SLA might seek to trade Miss Hearst for two SLA members being held on murder charges in Oakland in connection with the Foster slaying, Bates said, "That's a logical speculation." The state attorney general's office refused to speculate on whether such a trade could be made.

Bates said he knew of no other case in the United States in which such an exchange was made. He said such a proposal would have to be discussed with California state authorities, in whose custody the two men are being held.

Bates said FBI agents working on the case are keeping him advised "minute-by-minute" of their progress.

Berkeley Police Lt. David Johnson said early today that Miss Hearst's fiance, Steven Weed, who was beaten during the kidnaping, told investigators her wallet was taken by the trio which burst into the apartment.

Johnson told newsmen he felt the terrorists "probably mean what they say about execution."

Police said today the terrorists probably have more evidence to back up their claim that they have Miss Hearst in captivity.

Masson Buys Madera Land

SARATOGA (UPI) — Paul Masson Vineyards has announced the purchase of 640 acres of land in Madera County for construction of a winery for ports and sherries.

Paul Masson president Stanford J. Wolf said Wednesday a 3,000,000-gallon storage cellar would be built on the property 14 miles north of Madera.

Subsequent building will include crushing and fermenting facilities capable of utilizing up to 75,000 tons of grapes, Wolf added.

Dekker Reelected Heritage President

Elected with him were George J. Silvestri Jr., vice president; Willis C. Silverthorne Jr., second vice president; Eilene Taekman, coresponding secretary; Courtney Taylor, recording secretary and Marilyn Bolinger, treasurer.

The boring, or drilling process in which pipe is inserted underground through casings, requires no surface disruption, according to Nute. "You don't know they're doing it," he pledged.

Nute also explained that original plans to underground the trunkline up San Anselmo Avenue and through the center of the business district have been abandoned for a more circuitous route stretching up Tunstead Avenue to Library Place, Magnolia Avenue, Kinetz Lane, Tamalpais Avenue and finally San Anselmo Avenue.

The route will require strips of open trenching, however, on Tunstead Avenue, on San Anselmo Avenue between Bridge Court and San Rafael Avenue, and on Magnolia Avenue near Kientz Lane, Nute explained. The open trenches will require closing of Tunstead Avenue for two weeks, thus blocking one means of business district access, as well as staggered closings of portions of Magnolia and upper San Anselmo avenues.

In addition, the boring will require excavation of "boring pits" at five locations along the trunkline route, including sites on Library Place and Tunstead Avenue, Kientz Lane, and San Anselmo Avenue, Nute said.

Nute said boring will cost about $75,000 to $100,000 more than trenching would have cost.

Businessmen were especially concerned with the plan in light of last year's experience. Their concern was tempered by Nute's explanation that starting time of the project this summer is uncertain due to expected problems in obtaining materials.

Of most concern, they agreed, is closing Tunstead Avenue for two weeks.

"Right off the bat, it's to hell with the businessman," said one merchant. "It could kill us," he said.

"We all know what happened last year," said chamber sewer committee chairman Wallace Raymond. "It's a potential disaster."

Arthur Wasser, owner of Wasser's Furniture on Greenfield Avenue, urged fellow merchants to take a militant view on the matter. "Even if the project takes 12 weeks, we're going to have a mortality rate of 30 to 40 per cent of the merchants," he claimed.

Wasser gained the backing of colleagues when he urged Nute provide the chamber a precise timetable for the project, as well as a further analysis of the boring procedure.

Chamber members said they will appear at a future sanitary district meeting to discuss the project, urge inclusion of stiff penalties for tardy work and inspection fees in the contract to be let for the project, and work closely with city officials in monitoring the project.

Merchants also said they would like to be assured that adequate fuel supplies exist to complete the second-phase project after it begins, and said the district should begin work by mid-July to assure completion before the fall shopping season.

Despite these precautions, merchants were clearly worried about survival.

"How about volume? Customers that won't be coming? Cash registers that won't be ringing?" asked one.

Cable Television Session Feb. 22

Cable television and franchise agreements with Marin cities will be the topic of a meeting and panel discussion Feb. 22 at 2:30 p.m. in Olney Hall at the College of Marin.

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported in yesterday's issue that the meeting would be held today.

"Well done," said Pogue, obviously excited and happy after splashdown.

In a message to the astronauts, President Nixon said, "Your mission has brought to an end one of the most scientifically productive endeavors in the history of human exploration."

America's first space station was left behind in a 269-283 mile high orbit where it is expected to drift like a ghost ship around earth for at least five to eight years. Stowed aboard was a "time capsule" containing equipment for possible retrieval by visiting spacemen in the future.

The astronauts returned to earth on their 1,213th orbit and, like the beginning of the $2.6 billion project nine months ago, a technical problem had to be overcome. Just before reentry, the pilots discovered one of two redundant control rocket systems was leaking. The astronauts used the other system without difficulty.

After three parachutes eased the Apollo landing ship into the ocean, Gibson asked how close they had come to the New Orleans.

"Looks like three miles to us," replied recovery officers.

"Not bad for the first time," Gibson said.

The astronauts began their day when they awakened at 10 p.m. last night and spent 8 ½ hours closing down the 86- ton laboratory.

"It's really been a useful machine," Carr told mission control in Houston after the astronauts moved away from Skylab in the Apollo command ship they rode back to earth. "I hate to think we're the last guys to use it."

The recovery ship New Orleans is expected to dock in San Diego tomorrow and the Skylab 3 spacemen are due back home in Houston Sunday night for a long awaited reunion with their wives. They must remain away from their children, however, for another week to give them time to adjust again to earth's germs.

Doctors predict it will take the spacemen about three weeks to readapt to the rigors of gravity after spending so long without it in orbit. Medical tests aboard Skylab during the past few weeks, however, showed they were in excellent shape.

Explosive Dip Suit Is Filed

When a Mill Valley executive secretary went to heat a can of jalapeno bean dip last month, it allegedly exploded in her face, causing serious burns on her neck, shoulders, hands and arms.

Joyce C. Bolton, 27, sued Granny Goose Foods Inc. and Safeway Stores for $75,000 yesterday. The Marin Superior court action was filed by San Francisco attorney Richard P. Hill.

Miss Bolton's suit blamed "defects in the manufacture, packaging and labeling" of the dip for the explosion. She said she followed heating directions on the can.

According to the suit, she bought the dip at a Safeway store in Mill Valley.

Nine Officers Are Killed During January

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI today reported nine local and state law enforcement officers were killed due to criminal action —all through use of firearms —during January.

The number compared with 19 killed in January 1973.

The monthly report showed four were killed in North Central states, three in Southern states and two in Western states.

The FBI said five died while handling disturbance calls, three in connection with robbery investigations and one died in an ambush attack.

PETALUMA MAY HAVE A NEW LIBRARY

If Petaluma voters approve a $750,000 bond issue March 5, the library pictured above in an architect's drawing will be built in the city's Kenilworth Park. The $1.3 million structure would triple present library space, provide seating for 190 persons and be used for community meetings. A total of $572,000 from revenue sharing funds has been pledged toward the building by the city council and Sonoma County supervisors. The architects are Beland and Gianelli of Vallejo and Lieb and Quaresma of Petaluma.

Vatican Clears Up Mindszenty Action

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI did not intend to show disrespect for Cardinal Joszef Mindszenty or appease enemies of the Catholic Church when he relieved him of his post as primate of Hungary.

Answering a statement by the exiled cardinal's secretariat, Vatican spokesman Federico Alessandrini said in a written reply that the Pope took full responsibility for the move.

It reiterated the Pope's statements of respect and affection for Mindszenty and said his removal should not be "interpreted as acquiescence to principles or behaviors the church could not approve or accept."

Its sole purpose, the statement said, was to give Hungarian Catholics "the active, encouraging and strengthening guidance and presence of a pastor of their own under a regular system of canonical administration."

British Miners Reject Plea To Delay Strike

LONDON (UPI) — Mineworkers leaders today rejected a plea by Prime Minister Edward Heath to postpone a national mines shutdown during Britain's general election campaign. They voted to go ahead with it as planned at midnight tomorrow.

Sid Vincent, a member of the mineworkers union executive, said "the vote was almost unanimous."

Militant union leaders pushed through the strike at a two-hour meeting today while demonstrators shouted outside union headquarters clamoring for a strike. Union head Joe Gormley had personally favored postponement of the work stoppage, which is sure to worsen Britain's economic troubles in the midst of the campaign.

Heath called the election for Feb. 28 seeking to win a mandate at the polls for a tougher hand with the militant unions which seek pay raises higher than Heath's Conservative government will allow under antiinflation curbs.

While announcing his bold political gamble, Heath also asked the 269,000 coal miners for a truce "in the national interest."

He issued the same call to 29,000 railwaymen, whose leaders also met today to consider calling off their slowdown and rotating strikes.

One poll gave the opposition Labor Party of former Prime Minister Harold Wilson a 3 per cent popularity edge but another poll today placed Heath's Conservatives ahead by 9 per cent.

London bookies today quoted 8-11 odds on a Conservative win, 11-10 against Labor and 100-1 against the third ranking Liberals.

In an indication that the Conservatives will pitch their campaign on a "government against unions" issue, James Prior, leader of the House of Commons and a senior minister in the Heath cabinet, said Britain's 40 million voters have a simple choice "Who rules— the government or the unions?"

The prime minister, in announcing the balloting, abandoned efforts to head off this weekend's potentially paralyzing coal mine strike, the latest and most serious union challenge to his government's anti-inflation wage guidelines.

Government officials said Heath decided to risk a vote because he needed the backing of a new, five-year mandate to deal with Britain's gravest crisis since World War II.

In television speeches launching their campaigns, Heath came out against an unnecessarily divisive or bitter electoral battle.

The government also announced a four-month extension of a state of emergency declared Nov. 12 when Britain's 269,000 miners began a slowdown slashing coal production 30 per cent. Britain depends on coal for 70 per cent of its electricity.

The coal slowdown, Arab oil cutbacks and an overtime ban by the nation's 29,000 railroad engineers, have combined to cut fuel supples and force Heath to impose a three-day work week, throwing up to 1 million Britons off their jobs.

The national executive committees of the miners and trainmen, however, met today to decide whether to call off their job actions until after the election.

The miners have been demanding pay increases of up to 35 per cent, but the state-run National Coal Board has refused to grant more than the 16.5 per cent allowed under the government's wage guidelines.

Hijack Drama In Kuwait Is Ended

KUWAIT (UPI) — Five Arab guerrillas ended a two-day occupation of the Japanese embassy today, released the last of their 16 hostages and left Kuwait aboard a special Japanese plane for Aden.

A Japan Air Lines spokesman said the plane left shortly after 4 p.m. and was expected to arrive in Aden, capital of the Peoples Republic of Southern Yemen, three hours later.

Aboard were the all-volunteer, nine-man Japanese crew of the DC8 jet, a number of Japanese and Singapore government officials and nine guerrillas, the five from Kuwait and four from Singapore who touched off the hijack drama more than a week ago.

The Kuwait guerrillas had occupied the embassy and threatened to kill diplomat hostages with pistols and hand grenades to force the Japanese government to send the plane to Singapore to rescue their comrades from a hijacked ferryboat.

Southern Yemen is the only Marxist state in the Arab world and one of the very few places where the guerrillas from the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine could expect to receive refuge.

Before the plane left Kuwait, the Iraqi news agency said in a dispatch from Aden that Yemeni Foreign Minister Mohammed Saleh Muteeh had agreed to a Japanese request to let the plane land at Aden.

Japanese Ambassador Yoshitaka Ishikawa, one of the hostages, said at a brief news conference immediately after his release around noon:

"I am very happy that the Kuwait authorities were able to protect us and obtain our release. The armed men treated us quite well and appeared to be calm all the time."

The ambassador said there were only five guerrillas, all of them Arabs and none Japanese.

Initial reports had given the number of guerrillas as nine and said they included four members of the Japanese Red Army guerrilla group.

Ishikawa first reported his release in a direct telephone call to the Japanese foreign ministry in Tokyo.

Ishikawa told the ministry the guerrillas asked to be flown to Baghdad, capital of leftwing Iraq.

Newsmen at the desert airport said the waiting plane was kept in a remote section, but that the cars carrying the hostages apparently did go to the airstrip.

FULLY ADORNED — Champion Geym Shades of Bou displays the splendid coat that is his pride and glory. But this was in happier days. A mysterious attacker has taken shears to this hairy raiment and knocked him out of show competition for months to come.

STRIPPED BY CLIPPERS

Sheared Shady's A Sad Champion

Imagine if Billie Jean King broke her leg, or Bob Dylan lost his voice or Carol Doda fell flat.

Their predicament would be somewhat similar to the fate which has befallen champion Geym Shades of Bou, an Afghan show dog living in Larkspur.

Shady, as he is known familiarly, is out of the show circuit for perhaps as much as a year because of an attack on him Sunday.

An intruder who slipped into his home took a pair of shears to his hindquarters, cutting off his flowing coat in sharp swaths, and in a couple of places going clear to the skin.

Although the layman would have to look twice to see the damage, the sharp eyes of a dog show judge would spot the defects immediately.

"He's usually the happiest dog, but all he does now is sit and cry," said Arthur Shapera, Shady's owner, as the big, silky dog crept under a table and whimpered.

Shapera then related the tragedy that befell Shady.

"It had to be either a jealous fellow dog owner or an irate neighbor," said Shapera of the attack on Shady.

On Sunday, Shapera and his wife were at a big dog show in San Francisco. In their home (a townhouse off Eliseo Drive) were a baby sitter and their two young children.

The babysitter went for a walk with one of the children but did not lock the front door, Shapera said, because the lock had been jamming.

He believes someone sneaked in while they were gone, crept down to a garage where Shady stays in a large pen and began cutting. Shapera thinks the attacker was surprised when the baby sitter returned and fled through the garage door, possibly before attacking another dog in the garage.

Shapera said that in the nearly a year that he and his family have lived in Larkspur, there have been several complaints about his dogs, although he said his four valuable animals "don't bite or bark or disturb the peace."

Because of a petition and complaints to Larkspur officials, Shapera now keeps two of the dogs at his handler's residence. (Larkspur has a city ordinance prohibiting more than two dogs per domicile.)

On the other hand, if the attack was not done by a neighbor, Shapera suspects another show dog enthusiast. He said the jealousy in such circles is sometimes very great and even poisonings have occurred.

Shapera pointed out that Shady was the "top all-breed best in shows winner in California in 1973."

Shapera, who owns shopping centers in the East and who is free to spend most of his time at home, said he now plans to hire a security guard to guard his animals when he is away.

In the meantime, a pink-eyed Shady certainly seemed to be grieving because he is going to miss the biggest Afghan show of the year this weekend in New York.

THE PRICE IS RIGHT

Portland, Ore., gas station manager Patti Mills smiled yesterday as she pointed to the 63-plus cents a gallon price on premium fuel at her Sav-Mor station. Internal Revenue Service officials, who investigated the price, said it is legal because Time Oil Co., which supplies Sav-Mor, had recently purchased extremely high-priced Indonesian oil and all the station was doing was passing on the cost to the consumer. A Promise Of Better Gas Mileage Is Made

DETROIT (UPI) — Full-sized cars that deliver no less than 15 miles per gallon in city and suburban driving will be a reality in three or four years, said General Motors Corp. chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg.

Facing threats that Washington will set a timetable to force Detroit to build cars that use less gasoline, Gerstenberg said yesterday the 15 m.p.g. goal is just a minimum. He said GM already is switching to more economical engines to meet customer demand.

"I think there still is a good market for a full-size car, but we have to be innovative enough to find some way to get a rather substantial improvement in fuel economy for a larger car," Gerstenberg said.

The standard-size car now gets about 9 or 10 m.p.g. in normal city and suburban driving, he said.

Gerstenberg met with newsmen following a conference on areas of public concern in which he told financial and institutional investors that the word "profit" has become a "grubby, selfish sound." He warned that none of our national goals can be accomplished unless business is allowed to earn a fair return on its investment.

The sharp drop in big car sales in the final three months of 1973 saw GM profits drop 22.5 per cent from the final quarter of 1972. GM, with its heavy dependence on standard-sized cars, was hit hardest by the shift as people began worrying about keeping gasoline tanks full.

Switching its entire line of 1975 model cars, with the exception of the sub-compact Chevrolet Vega, to catalytic mufflers to control emission should result in an average 13 per cent fuel economy boost, he said.

A high GM official confirmed that only the Vega's four-cylinder engine would be able to meet government emission standards without the catalytic converter. The emission control device is expected to add $100-$125 to the price of 1975 model cars.

The search for more economical engines, however, does not include buying V-6 engines from American Motors, Gerstenberg said. The smallest of the major automakers was considering reopening its Toledo, Ohio engine plant if GM had been interested in the V-6 engine.

High-Heel Shoes Foil A Robbery

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Sergio Enrique Escobar Inostroza grabbed a briefcase containing nearly $6,000 from a construction firm employee who had just left a bank and fled down the street clattering on his six-inch-high heel shoes.

Escobar tripped on the fashionable footgear and fell. Passersby held him for police.

Oil Firms To Provide Price Data

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Five major oil companies have conditionally agreed to turn over to a state legislative committee their records on the pricing of crude oil in California.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, chairman of the Joint Committee on Public Domain, hailed the agreement as "a tremendous victory for the people. It is the first time oil companies will give this basic, unadulterated data to the public. Government has never had this kind of information."

Cory made the statement yesterday after representatives of his committee and the companies — Mobil, Texaco, Exxon, Union and Standard Oil of California—reached a compromise in their dispute over the committee's demand for the firms to produce the records. The committee had filed suit to force release of the data.

The agreement was reached in a closed-door pretrial conference conducted by Superior Court Judge William Gallagher.

The committee last fall demanded the records to help it determine whether the companies pay a fair price for oil purchased from state tidelands. Cory, D-Garden Grove, had charged the companies were short-changing the state about $50 million a year.

The five companies had refused to produce the records, contending the information was confidential and releasing it would give an unfair advantage to competitors.

Cory said that under the compromise "the committee, in essence, got every document it requested."

But he said the compromise provided that some of the documents the companies feel are sensitive will be turned over to the legislative analyst's office for "de-identification."

Cory said the analyst's office, working with oil experts, will remove any reference to specific companies in the date before giving it to the committee. He said this procedure is designed to prevent use of the information by competitors of the firms.

Cory said the compromise was "a great step forward in enabling government to deal with the energy crisis on the basis of fact not fiction."

Gallagher set March 20 for a hearing to determine whether the oil companies will reimburse taxpayers for the $40,000 cost of the litigation.

Lack Of Interest Kills Ski Trains

TRUCKEE, Calif. (UPI) — Two Sierra snow trains which had been scheduled to bring San Francisco Area skiers to mountain ski runs this month have been cancelled because of lack of interest.

The first train was to arrive here today. The second was to arrive the next weekend. But an American Rail Tours official said only 100 passengers made reservations, and at least 300 were needed to break even on the trip.

State Still Needs Quake Protection

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California would be a safer place today in an earthquake than it was three years ago, when the state's last major trembler kill ed 62 persons in the Los Angeles area, state officials say.

But thousands of California children still attend school in buildings which don't meet safety standards enacted two generations ago. Hundreds of hospitals, highway bridges and other public structures don't meet current safety standards.

The killer quake which roared through the San Fernando Valley suburbs north of Los Angeles the morning of Feb. 9, 1971 was not of catastrophic magnitude.

In this century, California has experienced 16 tremblers of greater intensity, and the 1906 San Francisco quake released 1,000 times as much energy.

But the force of the San Fernando Valley quake was concentrated in a few areas where it exposed some weak points in California' earthquake defenses.

An entire hospital wing crumbled. Three freeway overpasses collapsed and 62 others were damaged. Thousands of homes and businesses were damaged. An aging earth dam shifted menacingly on its morrings and cracked — but did not break — as 80,000 persons were evacuated from nearby homes. Total damage was estimated at $55 million.

Since then, state officials report these actions have been taken:

DAMS — Twenty-nine dams similar to the damaged Van Norman Dam have been identified as potentially dangerous and either drained or restricted to lower water levels. Most are slated for replacement.

SCHOOLS — Some 519 unsafe school buildings have been closed throughout California. But 179,285 children still attend classes daily in 1,258 other buildings which do not meet minimum school earthquake safety requirements adopted by the legislature after the 1933 Long Beach quake.

HIGHWAYS — Another 138 highway overpasses have been identified as potentially unsafe, and $5 million has been appropriated to modify them. Work is completed on about 90 of them, and contracts have been issued for work on the others.

New design standards for stronger bridges in earthquake zones have been adopted for freeway bridges, hiking the cost of new freeway construction an additional $7 million a year.

HOSPITALS — Tougher earthquake safety standards have been enacted for new hospitals constructed in California. Those standards exceed even the school standards, in that they are intended to assure the hospital not only stand, but also remain functional during earthquakes.

However, the law does not apply to federal hospitals, such as the one which collapsed in 1971, and it is not applicable to pre-1971 structures.

ARLINE JUDGE
Death at 61

Film Star Arline Judge Found Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The body of former film actree Arline Judge was found in her West Hollywood apartment yesterday. Authorities said the 61-year-old woman apparently died of natural causes.

The New York-born actress worked as a dancer and chorus girl before traveling to Hollywood during the 1930s. She starred in a series of light romantic comedies through the 1940s.

Miss Judge, married and divorced seven times during her intermittent show business career, was once asked whether she might like to attempt an eighth marriage.

"Why not?" she shrugged. "I don't like living alone. You gotta keep trying." Her last husband was Los Angeles businessman Edward Cooper Aheard.

Among Miss Judge's film credits were: "G.I. Honeymoon,""Girl Crazy,""The Sin of Harold Diddlebock," and "Looking for Trouble."

Layoffs Rise As Truckers Keep Idle

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The number of unemployed Americans, already boosted by the energy crisis, has been growing as a result of the truckers' strike.

The latest workers to be hurt are those in the food industry.

The American Meat Institute in Chicago reported that 21 meat processing plants employing 10,000 workers have been closed. It said nearly all of the packers and processors across the nation would have to close if the strike does not end by the weekend.

Food markets in the Northeast have been laying off workers because produce has not been arriving from Southern and Western growing areas.

Two manufacturing plants in Iowa, J.I. Case in Bettendorf and Franklin Manufacturing in Webster City, will close today because of the truckers' strike. Some 2,200 employees will be out of work for the day.

In New Jersey, 2,200 persons have been laid off at a General Motors plant in Linden and 500 at the lamp division of General Electric in Newark. The New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry estimated between 6,000 and 7,000 were laid off in northern New Jersey.

Across the nation, the number of unemployed because of the energy crisis is close to a quarter-million, about 100,000 of them due to the truckers' strike alone.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said seven plants in Ohio had either closed or cut production, putting 18,322 persons out of work. American Motors plants and other factories were sending lay off notices to another 4,500 Ohio employes.

Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania estimated at least 50,000 workers were idle in his state because of the strike and warned that the statewide total could reach 400,000 if the situation is not settled.

An Optimistic Report On Flu

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California has a good chance of getting through the season without any major outbreaks of flu, a state health official says.

Dr. Ronald R. Roberto, medical epidemiologist with the state's Infectious Disease Section in Berkeley, said Wednesday only sporadic incidents of influenza have been reported with no indication of any outbreaks.

"Overall, I would expect it to be a year of low-level activity," he said.

POLICING THE POLLUTERS

Larry Lehman (above) vehicle inspector for the California Highway Patrol, checks a car's exhaust emission with the patrol's new smog analyzer. The device, which the patrol began using yesterday at its vehicle inspection stops, measures hudrocarbon and carbon monoxide levels which register on the dials (below). Under the law, older cars are permitted to emit more pollutants than newer ones. Capt. William S. Bloomer, Marin CHP commander anticipates that 23 per cent of the cars checked this year will be in violation of anti-smog laws and require repairs costing an average of $32.12. Motorists in violation will be issued a written warning and must make the repairs within 14 days. Last month 343 Bay Area motorists were cited by the patrol's "smog cops" who drive along the roads looking for vehicles spewing clouds of dirty smoke.

Suez Missile Sites Blown Up By Egypt

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt has blown up most of its deadly missile sites on the east bank of the Suez Canal, complying with the troop pullback agreement worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Israel said today.

In Cairo, the authoritative newspaper Al Ahram today quoted Egyptian President Anwar Sadat as saying the war with Israel had not ended and could be resumed at any minute.

The semi-official paper said fighting could erupt if Israel delayed withdrawing from occupied Arab lands or "restoring" the rights of Palestinian refugees.

Jordan today denied Palestinian reports of a mutiny in its army. Premier Zeid Rifai said a small number of soldiers had appealed for improved living conditions, but the army remained loyal to King Hussein.

Egypt today lifted local press censorship on all but military matters in its continuing domestic liberalization. The decision ended more than 22 years of total censorship on local newspapers which were nationalized in 1960. The lifting goes into effect tomorrow.

In Israel, there was speculation that Defense Minister Moshe Dayan may cancel a scheduled visit to the United States. The newspaper Yedioth Aharonoth said Dayan wanted to avoid creating any impression that Israel was involved in indirect negotiations with Syria on a Golan Heights troop disengagement accord.

The newspaper said Israel still wants a list of Israeli prisoners of war held in Syria and permission for the Red Cross to visit them before the start of any talks.

The Israeli armed forces radio said Egyptian demolition teams had been seen recently destroying four of the five anti-aircraft missile pads Cairo built in the Sinai Desert.

Oil Industry Blamed For Energy Shortage

NEW YORK (UPI) — A poll by Louis Harris and Associates showed today the American public still holds the oil industry and the federal government primarily responsible for the energy crisis. The public blames the two by a wider margin than it did last September, the survey, copyrighted by the Chicago Tribune, said.

The survey said 83 per cent of those polled in January held oil companies responsible for the crisis, compared with 74 per cent who felt that way in September.

The government's reputation, according to the poll, fell by 12 per cent between September and January. Seventy-five per cent said they thought the government was responsible for the crisis.

The public is less inclined to blame themselves for U.S. fuel problems, the survey said. Last fall, 54 per cent felt the public was responsible for a major share of the blame. This figure had fallen to 44 per cent by January.

However, the poll found the public is prepared to make some sacrifices, such as reducing speed limits, closing gasoline stations on Sunday and requiring car pools.

Explosion Follows Rail Derailment

TROY, Ill. (UPI) — Two cars of a 90-car Penn Central freight train derailed early today near here touching off a spectacular explosion and fire in a tank car containing vinyl chloride.

Some area residents left their homes temporarily, but all returned after they were assured by authorities there was no danger of further explosions.

Blood Is Sought For Pedestrian Accident Victim

Blood donations are being sought for a San Rafael insurance man who is in critical condition in San Francisco General Hospital with multiple injuries suffered when he was hit by a truck Wednesday.

Frank A. Tallarida, 46, of 41 Upper Oak Drive, was injured in an accident at about noon on Howard Street near Spear Street in San Francisco, police said.

A spokesman for his employer, State Mutual Life Insurance Co., said Tallarida was hit by a truck-trailer rig as he crossed the street in a crosswalk and slid under the rear wheels, which crushed his hips, broke his pelvis and collapsed both lungs.

He has received several blood transfusions and will need more, the spokesman said.

Blood may be donated in his name at the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Rafael or San Francisco.

Boot Discovery Is A Mystery

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Somewhere there may be a forgetful woman with an impressive collection of useless boots. Or perhaps a one-legged lady thief.

The mystery developed when James Paris noticed a box in the back of his pickup truck that he did not put there. In it were 21 women's boots—all for the left foot.

Paris had no notion where the boots came from or why they should be only for the left foot. He turned them over to police.

"Why does this SONY TRINITRON 17" color set cost more than the average 17" color television?"

Well to begin with you should understand that SONY doesn't make an "average" product. But why should you consider spending more to own a TRINITRON than another brand?
One word could explain it. "QUALITY". It's that simple to say but a bit more difficult to explain.
If you are really planning to own a color television, you owe it to your hard earned money to look into SONY TRINITRON. If you still want more insight to this amazing color set or the other outstanding sets in various screen sizes drop by and allow one of our knowledgeable salesmen to point them out.

Unique Trinitron one gun system produces three electron beams that are focused through the exact center of a single, very large electron lens (conventional TV sets use a three gun system and three small lenses). A slotted Aperture Grille permits more electrons to reach the screen thereby producing greater brightness when combined with the one gun system. The end result is a sharp, bright, true-to-life color picture.

No set-up adjustments. Conventional three gun color TV systems require costly, time-consuming set-up adjustments. With Sony Trinitron you simply plug it in and turn it on for instant true-to-life color.

Solid state circuitry assures dependable, trouble-free viewing. Without tubes to warm up, the picture and sound come on instantly. Sony pioneered solid state electronics by developing the first commercial transistor in 1954 and the first all-transistor TV in 1959.

Front mounted speaker directs sound at the viewer.

Removable Telescopic VHF Dipole Antenna "child-proofs" the antenna and eliminates repair bills. (available on all Trinitrons except KV-9000U). Should the antenna be broken it can be easily removed and replaced without having to bring the set in for repairs.

Circuit breakers protect Sony Trinitron from overloading which might damage solid state circuitry. The circuit breaker automatically shuts off the set when an overload occurs and can be reset at the touch of a button.

Automatic voltage regulator maintains a constant supply of voltage for the set's circuits regardless of the changing load requirements. This keeps operation of vertical, horizontal, color and all other circuits stable and reliable.

Automatic fine tuning samples the signal being received and compares it with the ideal fine tuning position; the AFT circuit then corrects the fine tuning electronically so that it falls exactly where the signal is. Essentially locking the signal in.

Automatic gain control samples the strength of the signal being received and controls the gain of the set's tuner and IF stages so that the picture strength remains stable without snow or overload under various signal strength conditions. Also compensates quickly to eliminate the effects of airplane flutter, when an aircraft passes overhead.

Automatic Noise Suppressor. A circuit which continually samples the video signal for large amplitude noise and automatically cancels out that noise. Without the ANS circuit the picture would jump, flicker and become washed out whenever large amplitude noise occurred. Large amplitude noise can be generated by electric motors, automobile engine ignitions, lighting and other sources.

Automatic color killer. Senses whether or not the received program is being broadcast in color. If not the ACK circuit shuts off the 2nd color amplifier in the set and eliminates snow and color blotches in the B&W program.

Mentally Handicapped Find Jobs In Competitive World

By JEFF GREER

The Marin Enterprisers' experiment of putting mentally handicapped persons into wage-paying jobs in the competitive business world will be two years old in April — and it's a lusty, growing infant.

The San Rafael firm has just landed an order to plant 22,000 tree seedlings for the United States Forestry Service in Northern California.

It's also planning to expand from its original, all-male landscape contracting specialty into a home management plan.

The service will serve private homeowners somewhat as building maintenance contractors serve commercial buildings, said Bob Williams, the Enterprisers' supervisor.

Supervised, insured crews of specially trained, handicapped men and women will visit homes twice a month to perform gardening chores, maintenance work and cleaning inside and outside the house, Williams explained.

Marin Enterprisers is sponsored by Marin Aid to Retarded Children. It also began with $16,000 "seed money" from the state Department of Vocational Rehabilitation — which was worried because it had spent thousands of dollars training retarded persons how to work, but could find few job openings for them.

The San Francisco Foundation gave the Enterprisers a $10,300 grant to buy equipment and help meet the payrolls between the time the firm lands a contract and gets paid for the work.

Workmen in Enterpriser crews find themselves earning money and paying income taxes instead of depending on welfare checks — but the jobs are no lifetime posts, Williams explained. Each person who signs on already has received all the training available from state or local rehabilitation programs. When he or she joins the firm, a timetable is set for the worker to obtain a job in private industry after gaining the necessary on-the-job experience.

The training program took an unusual twist last month, when seven workers and three foremen took a 10-day trip to Angel Island, Pescadero and Sonora.

GOOD DEED — Crew members of the Marin Enterprisers clear away Scotch broom and other high weeds from a building in the West Garrison on Angel Island State Park, as a public service. The handicapped workers took a 10-day tour last month, donating their labor to clean up and improve historic sites on Angel Island, Pescadero and Sonora.

The crew donated its labor to clearing brush away from the historic West Garrison buildings on Angel Island, living in a park service firehouse and doing their own housekeeping.

They did the same thing on the other two legs of their journey, donating cleanup and repair services, and getting in a bit of sightseeing.

"The weather was pretty rotten and cold" much of the trip but the Enterprisers came home enthusiastic about their first venture outside Marin, reported Tom Pringle, one of the foremen.

The professional supervisors lived with the handicapped workers round the clock, gaining new insight to their problems and attitudes. Pringle reported. It was the first time away from home for most of the crewmen, who ranged from 18 to 46 years old.

Having to do their own cooking and housekeeping, plan what supplies they'd need and "live on their own" was good preparation for the tree planting order, which is expected to keep three crews busy planting 32 acres in three weeks, near Covelo, Mendocino County.

The Enterprisers compete for their income on the open market, the firm's professional landscape designers submit bids to prospective customers and oversee the actual work if the firm is hired.

The young firm is equipped to build fences and terraces, handle all types of planting and irrigation work, and most other landscaping services. The company is getting a new crew cab truck from Novato auto agency owner John Davies to replace the more cumbersome utility-firm type truck it has used in the past.

The Enterprisers is strictly governed by federal health and safety rules. It had to turn to Sweden to find a chain saw that meets planned federal noise standards and that automatically stops if the blade jumps out of a cut, Williams said.

Marin Enterprisers both adds on-the-job experience to the vocational training the workers received earlier, and shows the public that mentally handicapped persons can become useful, taxpaying assets to the community, Williams stressed.

The pay the workman earns is based on a ratio between his productivity and that of a non-handicapped worker in a similar job. If the Enterpriser worker can do three fourths of the work a $4 per hour workman can do, he's paid $3 an hour, Williams explained.

"At that point, the Enterpriser is considered just about ready to work for a private employer," he added.

In the 22 months the program has been operating, it has graduated eight previously unemployed men into private jobs, and its workmen have earned more than $100,000 in wages.

Enterprisers began with one foreman and a crew of three workers; the average payroll now includes two foremen, six workers and landscape-designer-field supervisor. Williams directs the program at state expense; the rest of the Enterprisers are paid from the money the firm earns.

"I'm only surprised that other area's rehabilitation agencies haven't copied us," Williams concluded.

Yugoslavia Film Set By Explorama

A new film on Yugoslavia will be presented in the Explorama series at 8:15 p.m., Feb. 18 at the Marin Veterans' Memorial Theater in San Rafael.

The film, shot on location in different sections of the country, reveals historic cultural influences dating to the days of domination by Turkey and Rome. These political powers played a great part in shaping the present country which has existed as a state only since 1918.

While reviewing the hundreds of years it was a jumble of kingdoms and principalities warring among themselves, and its more recent history as a victim of the Nazis during World War II, the film also shows today's new roads, modern hotels and restaurants, serving a growing tourist trade.

Kennedy, LBJ Both Used Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson used sophisticated taping equipment in the White House, according to Attorney General William B. Saxbe.

At a news conference Wednesday, he said "people in a position to know" had told him so.

Saxbe said the Kennedy and Johnson tapes were of better quality than the Nixon tapes sought by federal and Senate Watergate investigators. He said Nixon's taping system was "pretty sorry" and "not a very sophisticated outfit," which helped explain the difficulty reported in monitoring the Nixon tapes.

Misdirection Is Turned Into Some Sort Of Bridge Magic

"Hocus pocus," says the stage magician, and he produces a rabbit out of a thimble. How does he do it? Part of the secret is misdirection. He persuades you to look in one direction so that you won't see what he's doing in the other direction. The same principle may be used by bridge magicians.

TAKES A GULP

West opened the ten of diamonds, and South gulped when he saw the dummy. North's jump to four spades was evidently based on a touching faith in his partner's ability to play the cards. South would have settled for a little less faith and something more in the way of aces or kings.

East won with the ace of diamonds and returned the suit, leaving South in command — for the moment. How was South to prevent the loss of a diamond, a spade and two top clubs?

WRONG SUIT

South could make his contract if an opponent returned the wrong suit upon being given the ace of trumps. But how could South stop a switch to clubs?

Misdirection was the answer. South cashed his other diamond trick, discarding a small heart from the dummy. Then he led the king of spades.

West won with the ace of spades and promptly returned a heart. He thought South had discarded his weak suit from dummy in the hope of ruffing a heart later.

JUST WAITING

This was just what South had been waiting for. He took dummy's queen of hearts, drew another round of trumps, and ran three more heart tricks, discarding two clubs from dummy. This limited the club loss to one trick and guaranteed South's shaky contract.

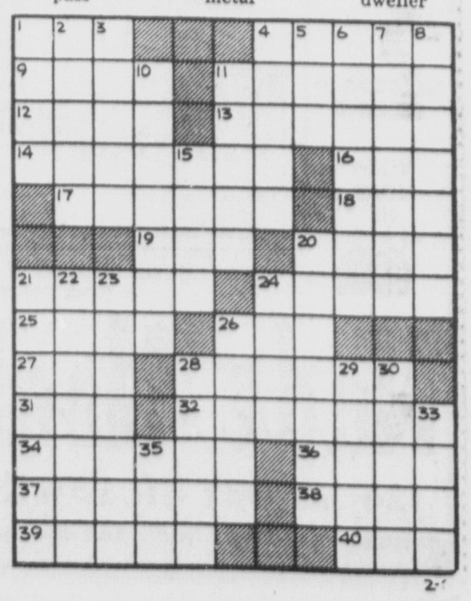
Yesterday's Answer



PROTESTERS — A girl leads student demonstrators outside Panama's legislative palace. The Panama City protest came yesterday as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was signing an eight-point document on principles for a new treaty for eventual Panamanian control of the canal.

Talks Proceeding On Panama Canal

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Negotiators started work today on the details of a new Panama Canal treaty after the United States agreed to hand over eventual control of the waterway to the Panamanian government.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said the United States would try to wind up the negotiations "as quickly as possible" in an attempt to put an end to a sore point in relations between the two countries.

Thousands of demonstrators, however, shouted "Yankee animal" and "gringo murderer" yesterday as Kissinger and Panamanian Foreign Minister Juan Antonio Tack signed an eight-point statement of intent to guide the treaty talks.

"In the President's name, I hereby commit the United States to complete this negotiation successfully and as quickly as possible," Kissinger said in signing the accord during his six-hour visit.

U.S. negotiator Morey Bell scheduled meetings with top Panamanian officials today to discuss the new treaty to replace a 1903 pact that gave America control of the canal "in perpetuity."

The statement of principles called for a two-part handover of the canal.

The United States promised to recognize Panama's jurisdiction over the Canal Zone as soon as the treaty was signed and promised Panama "total responsibility" for running the waterway at the expiration of the new treaty.

In an apparent concession, Panama agreed to let the treaty include "provisions for new projects, which will enlarge canal capacity."

The State Department, in a white paper issued in Panama City, said the United States was considering either adding a third lane of locks to the canal or building a new, sea-level waterway.

"Sacrificing neither interest nor self-respect, Panama and the United States have made a choice for partnership," Kissinger said at the signing ceremony in Panama's Legislative Palace. "While we have taken a great stride forward, we must still travel a difficult distance to our goal."

About 2,000 demonstrators, unhappy with the accord, massed outside the palace and shouted "yankee animal, get out of the canal" and "gringo, gringo murderer."

The statement of intent also called for Panamanian participation in the canal's defense, increasing Panama's share of the waterway's profits, cutting the size of the Canal Zone, abbrogating the old treaty and setting "a fixed termination date" for the new one.

Reinecke Wondering If He'll Be Indicted

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Times reported today that Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke has asked special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski whether the government intends to indict him as a result of their exhaustive ITT probe.

The Times said a source inside Reinecke's office disclosed that the lieutenant governor told Jaworski he's worried that uncertainty about the indictment has put his political "career at stake."

Reinecke is also reported to have informed the special Watergate prosecutor that it was unfair to keep him wondering about the status of the ITT investigation and whether the government plans on indicting him sometime in the future.

The lieutenant governor is a key figure in the government's probe of the International Telegraph and Telephone Corp., and their controversial offer to finance the 1972 GOP convention in San Diego.

The central question in the tangled case focuses on the date Reinecke told former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell about ITT's offer to finance the West Coast convention with $400,000.

Mitchell insists that word of the offer didn't reach him until after July, 1971, when the Justice Department settled their antitrust fight with ITT. The settlement turned out favorable to the communications giant.

Reinecke, though, has frequently wavered on the date that he privately told Mitchell of the ITT-GOP convention offer, and federal investigators for several months have been checking to determine if the ITT offer in some way colored the outcome of the Justice Department's case against the big corporation.

Reinecke has given varying accounts of when he told Attorney General Mitchell about the ITT offer, and on different occasions has dated those 1971 conversations in May, June and September.

There is, though, a memo by U.S. Sen. John Tunney, DCalif., to the effect that Reinecke told him that he had met with Mitchell to discuss the ITT offer in May or June of 1971, and not in July, as Mitchell insists.

The Times said reports have been circulating in Washington, D.C., that both Mitchell and the California lieutenant governor are being investigated by a grand jury concerned that the officials may have committed perjury testifying about ITT before a Senate committee in 1972.

Reinecke was in Washington Tuesday, conferring with the Watergate prosecutors, and there were reports he appeared before a federal panel. Reinecke refused to confirm or deny the report, though.

Yesterday, Reinecke told newsmen he would file his candidacy for the GOP nomination for governor on Monday. But a campaign source said Reinecke, worried over his future, has called for a huddle with his advisors on whether he should go ahead with the race after all.

Reinecke, asked Wednesday of the progress of the federal probe, said, "As you know, I cannot say anything. I have a feeling something conclusive will come out of this in a few days or a week."

Castro Reported Pleased With Brezhnev Visit

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Tass news agency today quoted Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro as saying that the recent visit to Cuba by Soviet Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev had strengthened Cuba's position in Latin America.

The official Soviet news agency said in its Havana dispatch that Castro had made the assessment of the Brezhnev visit in an interview with correspondents of Tass and the Russian newspapers Pravda and Izvestia.

Castro noted the particular significance of Brezhnev's visit to Cuba for Latin America and for all "third world" countries, Tass said.

Man Who Knows Wants To End Controls

The man who headed the federal price control commission in the early stages of President Nixon's "anti-inflation" program has called for an end of all controls on prices and wages.

Further, he is against renewing the Economic Stabilization Act when it expires in April. To keep it on the books, he contends, would make it too easy to re-institute controls by bureaucratic fiat.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., dean of the School of Business Administration at Southern Methodist University who was chairman of the original Nixon price control commission, urged the end of federal monkeying with the economy in an article in Wednesday's Wall Street Journal. The case he makes from inside knowledge substantiates what a lot of other people have been saying — only to be slapped down by the "experts" as not knowledgeable.

THE ADMINISTRATION interrupted our free economy with a three-month price-wage freeze in August, 1971. It was succeeded by Phases One, Two, Three, Three-A and Four.

The fear was that runaway inflation would force the costs of doing business so high it would bring on recession and widespread unemployment.

But the successive phases of what is called the economic stabilization program have not curbed inflation.

Last year, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics figures, the cost of living made the steepest rise since 1947. Cereals and bakery products went up 28.2 per cent (partly because of wheat sales to Russia). Meats went up 26.4 per cent; dairy products, 22.5 per cent. The steepest rises came right where they hurt the poorer people most.

Then came the energy crunch, forcing prices still higher and bringing widespread layoffs on top of those already caused by increased costs of doing business.

NOW CONTROL-MINDED economic planners are using the energy crunch as a new excuse for continuing the non-working controls. Removing them now, they say, would bring still sharper price rises.

Maybe so, says Professor Grayson — for awhile. But only for awhile. Given its freedom, the market will adjust — as it must whenever controls are removed, whether now or in some dim future.

The argument that the market mechanism is imperfect and therefore must be kept under government control "will tend to keep us in controls forever," he points out. And this, he declares, "would be institutionalizing inflation."

WHAT IT ALL boils down to is that no set of bureaucrats, however expert, can satisfactorily control the economy. And no free economy can co-exist with government controls.

The end must be either (1) the oppression of complete government control over the economic lives of every one of us or (2) an end to government tinkering with the marketplace.

The first would be intolerable. So why delay in adopting the second? Any temporary hardship is preferable to permanent slavery.

BILL FUSSELMAN

That Costly County Computer Can't Compute Own Capability

How dizzy can it get? When the data processing department costs you taxpayers over ¾ of a million dollars a year, would it not seem to you that the computer trained operators would know whether they could service additional county departments? Yes, to me too. Yet:

In the report of the Tuesday board of supervisors meeting this —

THE SUPERVISORS unanimously approved up to $10,000 for a study of the feasability of increased use of data processing in county offices.

Le Baptiste and Bob Roumiguiere said they would be willing to grant the grand jury the $21,000 additional they were asking, to pay for a study of administrative procedures, if it didn't overlap one already being made by the county's data processing committee. "Who dat?" Did you ever hear of such a committee?

I think you would want to know more about this department. As it will probably take more space than is available, I will have to continue it in next week's column. But before starting, it seems that we should all refresh our memory about the official identity of the auditor-controller and the administrator. The first was created under legislative authority by ordinance affixing "controller" to the auditor's title and duties.

THIS TITLE and the duties have been approved by the voters at each election since the combined office was established, as in the case of treasurer-tax collector. The administrator office was established by ordinance but because of some fast foot work in 1961 an attempt to submit it to a vote of the electorate, who earlier had defeated a charter which was an attempt to make such an office all-powerful, you were denied the opportunity.

So the department or office is being conducted through a double-talking ordinance which in the first part states that the administrator shall have authority over all departments, both elective and appointive, and then further along as a disclaimer, that nothing in this ordinance shall in any manner take away the authority vested by state law in any elective office.

You will see by what I relate next week the importance of giving this background now, for I intend to, step by step, show how the county management processes have become the mess it is and why the grand jury is moving in.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Public Office Holders Allergic To Sunshine

WASHINGTON — An innocent might assume that in the current climate in Washington, where a certain class of people has been doing secret things that created a distinct bad odor, prudent servants of the people would be more inclined to conduct the people's business out in the open.

But during the past week, the members of Congress alone have held an average of three-plus secret meetings a day. The business they transacted this way was not all shady; they just made it seem so. They are, most of them, allergic to sunshine. They like sunlamps, so to speak, in the form of staged hearings and publicity handouts that can be controlled carefully. But natural sunshine, which once admitted shines indiscriminately into all the corners, makes them nervous.

WHY THEY SHOULD be nervous about it is best known to them and their staffs. The ordinary citizen can only guess — and, denied admission, suspect.

He might be convinced that the term "national security" could be applied reasonably, for a change, when William Colby of the CIA was briefing the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on "international strategic matters."

The same, perhaps — but only perhaps — for Joseph Sisco, undersecretary-designate of state for political affairs, testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Also for Henry Kissinger before Ways and Means.

I say not that these people on these subjects are automatically discussing things that the people who vote and pay taxes should not hear. It is in such sessions that lawmakers and through them the public are misled about things like the bombing of Cambodia and the CIA's misadventures at home and abroad. In these cases, however, there can at least be a two-sided argument on whether they should be open or closed.

BUT NO ONE has ever presented an acceptable case for holding in secret such meetings as the following:

Caspar Weinberger, secretary of HEW, explaining the new administration health proposals to the Senate Finance Committee. (Not an advance disclosure, but the day after the president outlined these proposals in his "State of the Union" speech.)

Senate Rules, on federal financing of elections.

Senate Labor and Public Welfare, on improving programs for the blind.

The Select Committee on Nutrition, on any subject at all.

Or a series of apparently routine meetings of committee after committee, on matters labeled "housekeeping" or "committee business," and about which very few questions ever get asked.

MY CITING THESE congressional meetings does not mean they are the only, or even the worst, offenders in town. At least committees at the capitol publicly announce their meetings to which the public is disinvited. And in a legislative committee, normally both political parties are present, and the members' conflicting interests are virtual assurance that some facts are likely to leak out. In the bureaucracy around the rest of town, however, there is no such contention of forces working in the public's favor. There is unanimity in secrecy.

Fortunately, to say all congressmen are allergic to sunshine is not correct. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., for one, is not. He has submitted a "sunshine bill" that would do for the federal government what a similar law has achieved in his state. It would open congressional and agency meetings to the public as a matter of law. So far, it has 28 cosponsors.

Even it, though, already has limitations. In the language of the original bill, meetings involving "national security," internal memoranda, private personnel questions, trade secrets and confidentially obtained federal information would be excepted. Additions or refinements of those exceptions are being worked on now. In practice, the Florida law has been sharpened by court rulings. But its effect there has been nothing but salubrious.

What is needed here is pressure from the public whose business is at issue. Common Cause has joined the campaign for Chiles' bill. The press supports it reflexively. But unless the voters at large take recent scandals to heart and realize that the sun shines on their behalf, this bill is fairly likely to die by euthanasia someday in committee.

Closed committee.

Legislators Can Cash In On Drop-Out Bonuses

By RUS WALTON

The California legislators' retirement system is pretty generous, as it is — without any extras. For about $128 a month, the legislator can tie into a pension plan that would cost the average working person three or four times as much, maybe more.

But because of this year's reapportionment and special features in the plan, 60 legislators — 15 senators and 45 assemblymen — are eligible for early retirement bonuses. Those bonuses would make the everyday wage-earner drool with envy.

IF ALL OF THOSE 60 legislators were to drop out of office and take their bonuses — which are over and above the regular retirement benefits — the total cost would be at least $5.5 million.

Most of them will not drop out; they will run for re-election and most of them will be back in Babylon in 1975. But another proviso in the pension plan will permit them to take advantage of the extra bonus feature at any time in the future.

Some legislators will take their bonus this year. State Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, is leaving. His district was obliterated when the State Supreme Court reapportioned the Senate. Short has been in office for 20 years. At 54, he can start on a six-year retirement bonus of about $14,500 a year. By the time he is 60, and goes on regular retirement, he will have received approximately $87,300 in "bonus" benefits.

THE LARGEST EARLY retirement bonus in the Senate would go to Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, should he decide to leave. Beilenson, 42, has been in the Senate for 12 years. Because his district was redrawn this year, he could retire and collect $10,600 a year. That would come to about $190,000 in retirement bonuses by the time he reached 60. Beilenson will forego that, for the time being, and seek re-election.

However, under the terms of the retirement plan, even after re-election he could retire any time he chose and draw his early retirement bonus. The longer he stays in office, the higher those benefits go until they reach a maximum of two-thirds of his $19,200 salary — $12,960 a year plus cost of living increases.

The largest early retirement bonus in the Assembly would be a whopping $222,000. That would go to Assemblyman John Quimby, D-Rialto, should he want to retire. Quimby, 39, has been in the Assembly for 12 years. His annual retirement benefits, under the special reapportionment formula, stand at $10,600 a year. For the 21 years until Quimby reaches age 60, those benefits would total $222,000. From sixty on, Quimby would continue receiving that base benefit of $10,600-plus.

Quimby, can stay in the Assembly a few more terms, pay his eight per cent into the pension fund, and retire at an early age at an even larger early retirement bonus.

Assemblyman March Fong, D-Oakland, is leaving the legislature to run for secretary of state. Mrs. Fong, 47, has been in the Assembly for eight years. Should she lose her bid for statewide office, she can draw early retirement benefits of $6,120 a year. That would add up to $79,500 by the time she was 60 years old.

IT'S NOT THAT the taxpayers are soft-hearted. It's just that we gave the legislators the power to design their own pension plan. Come to think of it, we're probably soft-headed.

If you would like a report on all 120 legislators, their annual pension and the bonuses available due to reapportionment, drop us a note care of this friendly newspaper. Send a return, stamped envelope. We'd buy the stamp but we just paid on our own piddling little pension plan and we're a bit short!

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

ROSCOE DRUMMOND: Congress's Also On Trial

WASHINGTON — In his "State of the Union" message, President Nixon promised to co-operate with Congress, and most Democrats wondered whether this was just words or whether he really meant it.

Fair question — and a needed one.

In his "State of the Union" reply, Senate Democratic Majority Leader Mike Mansfield promised to co-operate with the president, and the president wondered whether this was just words or whether he really meant it.

Fair question — and a needed one.

THE PRESIDENT ALSO appealed to Congress to put governing the country ahead of all else, including Watergate, and Senator Mansfield said yes, of course, in these words:

"Whatever the legal difficulties which confront the administration, the regular business of the nation must come first. The president put it first. Insofar as Congress is concerned, it will be first."

These, too, are nice words and there is no doubt that Senator Mansfield is absolutely sincere in his wish to do exactly what he says. He's that kind of man.

But there is real doubt whether the Congress, though decisively controlled by one party, has the will and the discipline to play the strong and positive role Senator Mansfield envisions.

UNQUESTIONABLY, President Nixon's capacity for leadership and his ability to generate public and congressional support for what he feels needs to be done has been seriously weakened by Watergate. This disability is underlined by the fact that in the latest Gallup Poll only 26 per cent of the public approves the way Nixon is doing his job.

But Congress is also on trial and is about to be tested to discover whether it can produce needed legislation on its own initiative and under its own leadership.

After Mr. Nixon laid out a wide-ranging agenda of urgent legislation, the opposition voices were almost at one in saying, in effect: Yes, but he has lost his power to influence Congress.

But isn't this exactly what most congressmen, Democrats and Republicans alike, have been complaining about — that the president has been exercising too much power, exerting too much influence at the expense of congressional authority?

Isn't this present situation absolutely tailor-made for Congress to prove that it can do what it has been saying it has been prevented from doing — that it can lead and legislate all by itself?

I DO NOT SHARE the view of some of Mr. Nixon's critics that because of Watergate he no longer has any significant public constituency to bring in behind his legislative proposals. The nation is understandably alienated by Watergate but there is no evidence that it has deserted the purposes and policies for which it elected the president so overwhelmingly. One reason the public would be quite comfortable if Vice President Gerald Ford became president is that it knows that the vice president's positions on most national issues are the same as the president's.

But if the critics are right in believing that the president can't lead, then here is the perfect opportunity for Congress to show that it can lead and thereby to make good Senator Mansfield's assurance that the regular business of the nation would come first, Watergate second.

ONE THING the Democrats must free themselves from is the myth that the Democratic Party is the party in opposition. It isn't.

It is the party in control of the coordinate branch of the government. It is the majority party in the country and it is the majority party in Congress and has been for 38 of the past 42 years.

This means that nearly every piece of good legislation and nearly every piece of bad, unwise or unworkable legislation are the work of the Democrats. Theirs was the power and theirs was the responsibility, and when Lyndon Johnson was Senate majority leader the party showed how well it could lead and legislate with a Republican in the White House.

In the present session of Congress the Democrats have more power and responsibility than ever. To do well it doesn't have to vote what the president wants, only what it feels the country needs.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Emergency Service By Lowest Bidder

Not all communities have district hospitals directly responsible to local taxpayers. Marin General is such a hospital, and is a hospital that guaranteed around-the-clock, doctor-manned emergency room service in return for the taxpayer support that made the hospital possible.

A number of local doctors have served in that emergency room for years, and have provided a high level of care to accident victims, those who become acutely ill who do not have doctors, etc. There have been administrative problems with regard to the Marin General emergency room, which is par for any emergency room.

Like all taxpayer-supported hospitals, Marin General should be consumer (patient) oriented. It is run by five elected board members. Four members of the board are consumers and only one member of the board is a provider of professional services.

In the absence of the doctor board member, on Jan. 29 the board considered the matter of the emergency room. The board had previously asked for bids from doctors for a group to provide the medical coverage to meet the hospital's community obligation. The presently employed group bid against a doctor who is new to the area who assures the board he can provide the services. The difference in bids seems trivial to me. The low bidder, the new and unknown doctor, now has the contract and responsibility for emergency room care.

The hospital board is now purchasing medical services as they purchase beds or detergents — at the lowest possible cost to the hospital.

Housing Director Should Learn At First-Hand

Response to story of Jan. 30 — denial of charges of no heat in Marin City by Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of Marin County Housing Authority:

Mr. Shepherd stated that the heating system in the low-rise apartments is adequate. That is far from being the truth. I live in the low-rise apartments and my family and I are constantly cold both day and night. These complaints come from no group outside the county. We, the tenants of public housing, are pleading to the outside public for help in getting sufficient heat.

We felt the shortage long before the fuel crisis came about. Mr. Shepherd, you can't say that the system is adequate when you never had to warm by it. Mr. Shepherd should occupy one of the low-rise units for a week, then he would be able to say whether or not the heating system is adequate. It is a known fact that you can't judge a book by its cover . . .

A theory popular in Washington now is that if Nixon refuses to mention Watergate any more, one or the other of them will go away.

Gerald Ford wouldn't like Nixon to resign. Who wants a hand-me-down presidency?

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By GEORGE NEVIN

Differing Views Of Juvenile Justice Operation In Marin

All is not sweetness and light with the juvenile justice system in Marin, the caller on the other end of the telephone was saying.

She had read my articles on "Youth and the Law" and, she said, she wanted to let me know that there are abuses of the system.

Hard on the heels of her call came another. A Terra Linda man wanted me to know that the sheriff's department's husband-and-wife team, Charles T. and Jeanette Prandi, has taken a special interest in their problems even though they don't live in county territory.

FIRST, THOUGH, the woman. She said her daughter, 15, was out on a double date recently and asked the boy she was with to stop so she could answer a call of nature.

It was late, and the four stopped behind the Cove Shopping Center in Strawberry. While there, two cars of sheriff's deputies arrived and "scared the absolute bejabbers out of them."

"They took those kids to the Marin City substation and grilled them, they got me out of bed to pick up my daughter," the woman complained.

She said the unpleasant experience had turned her daughter against police in general. "They had my permission to be out, even though it was after curfew. Why couldn't the deputies have issued a citation for curfew violation and let them go home?" she asked.

Prandi confirmed the incident but said the boys in the double-date party had used "poor judgment" in stopping behind the shopping center.

"That's a high-burglary area and when a deputy saw this car stop and some kids get out and go behind the stores, he went to investigate."

Though the youths told deputies why they were there, Prandi said, the officers had enough doubts to want to check out their stories at the substation.

Had the officer been satisfied at the youths' explanation, he could have sent them home with a warning. But since he had questions, he thought it better to make an official report of the incident, said Prandi.

A DIFFERENT VIEW of the Prandis and the juvenile justice system was offered by the Terra Linda man.

When his 15-year-old son became involved in drugs and burglaries, he said, the Prandis were "ultra-helpful" in working with the family.

Then his community was annexed to San Rafael and the Prandis no longer had jurisdiction there.

Still, said the man, the Prandis continued to show an interest in them. "Whenever I was frustrated I talked to them and they helped me get over my anger," he said.

The Prandis also convinced them to try family counseling, and now the father said he can much more easily understand his son's problems.

"I was at the end of my rope but the Prandis pointed me in the right direction," he said. "It's impossible to say enough about how helpful they've been, and on their own time, too."

AND GLORIA MELBOSTAD, an administrator in the Marin probation office, called to say she wanted people to know that some 75 volunteers offer their time to help make the juvenile system work in Marin.

These men and women, many of them students, provide a host of services for which there are no official funds.

Tam High District Tightens Belt

Cuts totaling about $40,000 from the Tamalpais High School District's central service program and district office budget have been made in the face of a $550,000 projected budget deficit for next year.

Supt. Robert D. Torrey today said the savings are a combination of cuts in programs and trimming of projected expenditures for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Major savings include:

Moving the district's continuation school from rented quarters to portable classrooms, saving $3,500 in rent (the continuation school has yet to move into the portables but is using available classrooms in the district).

Eliminating the district's annual administrative workshop and limiting participation in other workshops by teachers and staff saving $4,000;

Limiting part-time curriculum coordinators in the district to three by not hiring one in physical education, saving $7,000.

Using secretarial staff to administer state tests rather than hiring outside consultants, saving $1,200.

Reducing the number of teachers sent to homes of students with lengthy illnesses and projecting the light demand for such teachers over the rest of the spring semester, saving $3,000.

Operating district print shop on reduced budget, saving $1,000 (rumored discontinuation of district and superintendent's newsletters has not taken place).

Reduction in funds for expenses, books and supplies for district special education programs for mentally handicapped and those with hearing and vision problems, saving $3,000.

Torrey said the remainder of the $40,000 saving comes from trimming every individual budget within the district office and the central services which conduct districtwide programs such as drivers' education.

He said individual school administrators would begin meeting with district office staff today to discuss savings in each school's budget.

The budget deficit was projected at $861,835 in November by Frank A. Cassou, district business manager. Average daily attendance estimates were above actual attendance and he estimated the state would withold $471,070 next year to make up the difference from funds already given the district based on the higher estimate.

The remainder of the deficit is the result of the annual 5 per cent increase in salary scale, higher employee benefits and related items.

But because nine district teachers have resigned and the district has found that only about $287,000 will be withheld by the state, Torrey now estimates the deficit will be about $550,000.

Judge Frees Three On Legal Snag

A legal technicality has resulted in the release of three former convicts arrested when Fairfax police found drugs and guns in their car.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court ruled last week that Fairfax police lacked "probable cause" in arresting the trio on suspicion of loitering.

Baty then dismissed charges against Oscar Micky Curry, 28, Herman Kenneth Harris, 22, and John Lee Bailey, 37, all of San Rafael.

They were arrested Dec. 28 across the street from the Fairfax Police Station on Bolinas Road.

Officers reported seeing a car pull up to the Good Earth, a health food store, and two men walked down an alley toward an apartment building.

After questioning Bailey, the driver, who remained in the car, officers arrested him and the others on suspicion of loitering. A search of the car revealed four guns, ammunition, heroin and illegal pills, ski masks and stockings.

Baty ruled that since the alleyway led to an apartment building and the men could have had legitimate business there, officers had no probable cause to make an arrest.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Northern Ireland's Status Complicates Peace Effort

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

DUBLIN (UPI) — The nerve-tingling task of charting a path to peace in violence-ridden Northern Ireland faces new political hazards.

For Premier Liam Cosgrave of the Irish Republic, a political solution means satisfying two diametrically opposite demands.

For Brian Faulkner, chief minister of Northern Ireland's new power-sharing executive, it means the preservation of British links within the framework of a joint, cross-border Council of Ireland.

For both men it means a battle for survival against extremists north and south of the Irish border.

THE KEY to the difficulties of both leaders lies in the constitutional position of Northern Ireland. Since the Northern state was set up by Britain more than 50 years ago it has been treated as an integral part of the United Kingdom.

The Irish Republic has given de facto but not de jure recognition to this status. In fact, Articles 2 and 3 of the republic's constitution claim sovereignty over the whole island.

At talks last December in Sunningdale, England, between government delegates from Dublin, Belfast and London, Faulkner demanded a clear-cut recognition of Northern Ireland's status as part of the United Kingdom.

He got it from the British government. From the Irish Republic he got only a guarantee that the "present status" of Northern Ireland could not be changed except by majority consent.

NOW THE PRESSURE is on, both in Belfast and in Dublin, to find out precisely what the government of the republic means by the "present status."

Former Premier Jack Lynch, a consistent advocate of a peaceful solution in the north, has been spurred by his Fianna Fail party to demand an assurance that the Sunningdale agreement does not interfere with the republic's constitutional claim to jurisdiction.

IN BELFAST, Protestant militants led by the Rev. Ian Paisley, William Craig and Harry West have instituted a partial boycott of the infant assembly.

In Dublin, the Fianna Fail party is pushing for more radical opposition to the Sunningdale agreement.

If Faulkner is to hold the influential middle-of-the-road Protestant vote which he needs to survive, he must produce an acceptable solution to the "status" question before he can ratify the agreement.

If he gets it, Cosgrave could find the powerful Fianna Fail opposition party ready to reject the agreement.

Hub Couple Covers The World

By JOAN LISETOR

Spending an afternoon with the Albert Shells is a lesson in history and geography. There are few places in the world the San Anselmo couple has not visited.

"We never go to the big cities," Shell said. "We are always looking for something different."

Most of the couple's trips are recorded on film. They have amassed a library of approximately 58 films, shot and edited by Shell with sound recorded by Marty Shell. One of the films, "Our Journey Along the Nile," shot on a recent trip to Egypt, will be shown Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Marinwood Community Center as a benefit for the Marin Motion Picture and Television Council.

The Shells were in Egypt last September, shortly before war broke out.

"It was apparent something was wrong. Planes that were scheduled to fly were missing when we got to the airport, and the planes were flown by copilots. Now we know the pilots were getting ready for war, but we didn't while we were there. We left Egypt thinking we were paranoid, and the next day war broke out," Shell said.

TRAVEL BECAME a way of life for the Shells more than 30 years ago when they were first married. Shell was in the vehicle rental business and attended meetings four times a year in different parts of the United States. He and his wife, and sometimes their daughters, who are now grown, would extend the trips a few weeks to explore unusual parts of the country.

When they ran out of out-of-the-way places in this country, going abroad was only natural.

"If you want to travel, grab the opportunity when it comes. Do it now. Don't wait," Mrs. Shell said. "If you have to go without the proper clothing — go. See as much as you can, because you may never get back."

Mrs. Shell said she likes her comfort, and the couple has a few rules.

"If we are going to sleep on the ground it has to be the best ground. If we are going to sleep in a tent it has to be the best tent," she said.

"When you are going through uncomfortable circumstances say to yourself, 'This will pass.' You will only remember the good parts."

In Borneo the couple stayed in a longhouse with nearly 100 natives. The facilities were extremely primitive, and the natives very curious.

"THEY WANTED to see how Western people went to bed," Mrs. Shell said, "and they just stared at us."

The natives never found out, because the Shells went to sleep in their clothes.

The Shells always carry treats and trading items. They learn key words in the local language, such as "thank you," "please," "water" and especially asking words and words of appreciation, Mrs. Shell said.

"And we play a helluva good game of charades," Shell added.

Since Shell's retirement eight years ago the couple has made at least two international trips every year, spending at least two months. Months are spent researching the areas they will visit before the trip, and after every trip they spend months editing film.

They make arrangements with the ministry of tourism in countries that have relations with the United States, and when they are going to countries without American relations they deal with the United Nations public information officers.

Their most exciting trip, they said, was to South Vietnam and Cambodia 10 years ago.

"We were told if an airplane was needed for military purposes we would have to wait where we were until it got back," Shell said.

THEY LAUGH about the two weeks they spent chasing reindeer in Lapland. The first day out they saw two Laplanders by the road, and Shell decided not to waste the film on only two. He wanted to do a film on their civilization.

"We never saw another Laplander the entire trip," Mrs. Shell said. "They are on the move constantly, and they were always a few days ahead of us."

They went to Burma in 1971, the week after the country was first opened to Western travelers. Twice before Egypt they had left countries the day before war broke out — once in Bangladesh, later in Columbia. Never have they seen a city change as much as Bangkok, which has been turned into a dirty city by having a new batch of 10,000 G.I.s visit every 10 days, Shell said.

Mrs. Shell said she has ridden on elephants, camels, mules and donkeys. She has climbed out on the head of Buddha in Afghanistan and on the Leaning Tower of Pisa and swam with the seals in Galapagos Islands.

"But she wouldn't pet a cheetah," Shell said.

"We always want adventure, and we are seeking knowledge about the world and its people, what National Geographic forgot to write about," Shell said.

"POLITICS ALL over the world is interesting. Rarely is the politics of a country representative of the peoples' attitude, anymore than it is in this country."

Clothes have never been a problem, Mrs. Shell said. She has always bought clothes that wear and pack well. She coordinates outfits, and "when you are on the move, who knows you are wearing the same clothes three nights in a row?"

Pants are accepted most everywhere, she said, which makes traveling even easier. In Iran she has found the men very aggressive and rude to foreign women.

"You have heard about the Italian pinch," Shell said. "In Iran it's a five finger grab."

"The United States is the best place in the world for women," Mrs. Shell said. "We have rights women in other countries wouldn't dream of asking for. The Arab women are considered chattel."

The Shells collect very few souvenirs when they travel.

"With all of the camera and tape equipment, who has room?" Mrs. Shell asked rhetorically. The one thing they do collect is shells, and they are in the process of cataloguing them by country. Their greatest treasure is an enormous sea snail, millions of years old, found buried under tons of dirt in Lake Toya in Northern Japan.

THE SHELLS have never tried to sell their films. They enjoy showing them to school children and organization members.

"It's purely a hobby," Shell said.

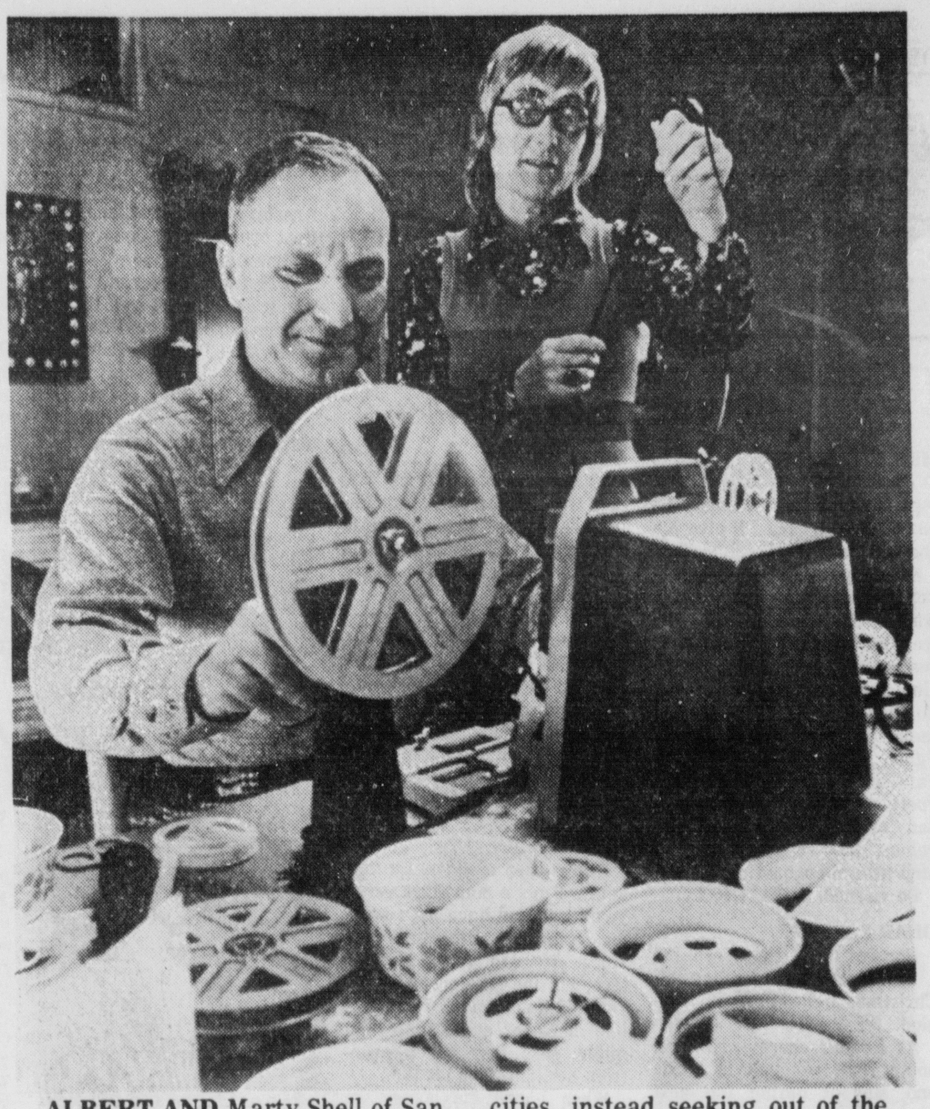
"It's the place we are going to next," Mrs. Shell said. Perhaps that will be New Guinea.

There are not many places left. The only continent they have not been on is Antarctica.



ALBERT AND Marty Shell of San Anselmo have amassed a library of approximately 58 films in their travels throughout the world. Months after each trip are spent editing the film. The adventure seeking couple never goes to big cities, instead seeking out of the way places that tourists never see. They have been around the world at least 10 times and visited every continent except Antarctica.

Business Tips By Store Owner

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Three fundamentals are necessary to go into a small business, Mrs. Anne Knutson, coowner and operator of Amber Griffin Bookshop in Novato, told "The New You" series at the Novato library yesterday and, she said, "I flunked on all three."

The three fundamentals she named were technical knowledge (bookkeeping), business practices (hiring, firing and taxes), and the financial investment, as she spoke on "The Challenge of a Small Business."

"You must have another source of investment for two years when beginning a business," she said. "I did not have a great reading interest, and knew nothing about keeping records and didn't know how to make out an invoice."

MRS. KNUTSON described the effect that going to work has had on her husband, Arthur, and sons, Thomas, 18, and Eric, 16.

She said she was no longer a taxi service and her two boys have become terrific cooks and are more self sufficient.

Her day usually begins at 8 a.m. and sometimes continues to 6 p.m. She also does paper work at times until 2 a.m. at home. Her husband, a consulting engineer, makes graphs to help in the business.

"My job is essential for me," she said, "but I find that I'm not indispensable." Even though she works seven days a week at the job, she said she took a month off last year and went to Europe. "I have an interest now, (the book shop) and I know that I don't have to do it forever," she added.

"I ENJOY bookselling and meeting the public." It's an alternative to housekeeping, Mrs. Knutson said, and she doesn't care if she doesn't "have the shiniest floors in town."

Novatans who read are not unhappy people and the shop tries to make people comfortable, Mrs. Knutson said. She suggested a book for those starting out in their own business, "A California Small Business Handbook" by Harry Koch.

A graduate of California State University, San Francisco, Anne is a native of California and was reared in Orinda. She received a teaching degree and taught French, but she wanted to be employed where she was not as confined.

"I find it a satisfaction in making my own decisions," she said. She has been with the bookshop three years.

The shop is co-owned by Beverly Ehreth, also a Novato resident. Mrs. Ehreth's foster son, Larry, also helps at the book store.

About the partnership, she says, "It's like a marriage." And Mrs. Ehreth gives the final authority.

Mrs. Knutson said she has an accountant, but she takes care of the bills and even cleans the bathroom herself.

One has to learn to be diversified in a small business, she said. "I find that I must learn to delegate responsibility, however."

The next meeting of the New You series will be Thursday at 10 a.m. Grace Mitchell, Kathryn Campbell and Janet Epp will discuss "Women and Careers." Mrs. Mitchell is coordinator of the College of Humanities and Fine Arts at Indian Valley Colleges; Miss Campbell is placement officer at the College of Marin; and Mrs. Epp is counselor and teacher at the College of Marin.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

MRS. BOTTEL:

You never listen to my warnings, so I suspect you may be one of "them," but I'll give you one last chance.

Surely you know that blacking out our Christmas lights was a Communistic plot. It's well-known that Communists realize wherever men worship God, they can't gain a foothold. So they inspire our leaders to make us turn off Christmas lights, even though we don't have a real power shortage, or energy crisis. Whenever they can take away our spiritual values, they've made a giant step toward conquering us.

Be warned. — PATRIOT

DEAR PATRIOT:

Forgive me if I'm dense, but I can't see how turning off Christmas lights turns off religion.

As for our energy crisis not being real, put that to music and sing it during the next brown-out —or as you pass the fifth closed gas station. — H.

P.S. I prefer the following sentiments, as expressed in the letters column of a New Jersey newspaper:

SIR:

This letter is to all those people who mourn over no Yule lights, etc. If the only thing you are deprived of at Christmas is enough colored lights, consider yourselves blessed. It seems you are deprived of knowing the real meaning of Christmas.

Lights don't make Christmas, they only add to it. The brightest light on that first Christmas Eve was a lone star, but it got the message across. Perhaps a few shortages are what we need to bring us to our senses and teach us to stop taking so much for granted —ONE WHO STILL ENJOYS CHRISTMAS

DEAR HELEN:

Regarding your recent column about a husband complaining that his working wife wouldn't sew a button on his shirt: don't encourage these dames!

DEAR SHELDON:

Questions like that may be the reason you're still a bachelor. May you get a wife who ignores the button and gives you the needle until you get the point. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have been a widow for nine years. I met a man about seven years ago and have been keeping company with him ever since. We are very much in love, but the problem is his 18-year-old daughter who does not like me — or any woman who might take her father away from her. She runs his life.

When I call the home, she hangs up on me, or lies that he isn't there. She even intercepts his mail.

He says I am jealous, and he doesn't want to say anything to hurt her. The result is I see him only once a week or less because I can't get in touch with him, to invite him over.

What can I do about this girl? — B.H.

DEAR B:

Don't blame the daughter completely for a seven-year drift that may be more habit than love, on the man's part. Possibly he's using her "possessiveness" as an excuse to stay single but satisfied. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

ON BEING BLACK

Ex-Convict Finds Love He Needed

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by the Los Angeles Times Syndicate

SALT LAKE CITY — "This sounds weird, but I dug the joint." T. J. shrugged his powerfully built shoulders, the result of years of working out with barbells in the prison gymnasium. "It was like home to me, especially after I learned my way around."

T. J., now an ex-convict, grew up in a series of foster homes and juvenile detention camps. "I even spent time in the state mental hospital. I was 10 years old, and every day I used to go to the recreation room where there was a pool table and ask the old guys if I could play pool with them. They would always tell me to get lost. One day I threw a pool ball and hit one of 'em in the head. I never had to ask again, they let me play."

THE POOL game episode is disturbing because the situation is so often duplicated in many other ways in our society. Why couldn't a kid (or anyone else) simply ask to play and be admitted to the game? Why must change (even legitimate change) be brought about only by an act of violence — be it mental, financial or physical?

T. J. is a provocative conversationalist — "I took a correspondence course in the joint, that Dale Carnegie one — and so he volunteered information about homosexuality in the prisons.

"That's what you guys read about all the time, the rampant homosexuality. Sure it exists, but it's not like you hear about. Every guy who comes into prison isn't immediately raped by 60 inmates.

"Mostly, it's a way a guy pays off his debts. Yeah, you get into debt in the joint, too. Everything you have outside, we have inside. All except credit cards.

"What happens is, the guys gamble — cards, checkers, dice and so on. Since there is no money to exchange, smokes and sex are the stakes. A guy in debt is really vulnerable. Still, it takes time to wear a new guy down to the point where he doesn't care about himself any more. When that happens, and it eventually does, homosexual acts are no big thing. Like, who cares? Sure, the majority of us would like to have women, but prison is an unnatural environmenta."

THE ONLY signs of bitterness were expressed as T. J. talked about corruption on the outside. "What bothers me most is that there are just as many crooks on the outside as there are on the inside. The government is certainly no image to pattern yourself after. To make a lot of money you have to use people and put them in your debt, just like on the inside. I often ask myself why the guys in the joint are there. Simple. They got caught.

"I went back twice. The first time I got out, all I could think about was getting a car, a stereo, some sharp threads and as many women as possible. And I got 'em too, but I wasn't happy. I deliberately broke parole so I could go back.

"But this time I'm out for good.

"Her name is Veronica. Her family calls her Ronnie. She's got a real nice family, and I like that because I never really had a family. They know all about me. Her old man just said, 'You respect us and we'll respect you.' And they do.

"RONNIE HAS changed my life. I never believed in love before, mostly because people are just using you. But it finally exists for me. The most incredible thing is how I feel about myself when she's not even around. The other day when I passed the mirror I actually smiled at that used-to-be ugly face.

"I wouldn't do anything to mess up now. Nothing in the joint compares with having a woman love you. Like, for the first time in my life I want to get up in the mornings. Now I want to make some kind of contribution to humanity."

A More Romantic Look Being Advanced

Fashion has been gravitating toward a more romantic look and this season that movement is showing up clearly.

Embroidered trim helps to soften the tailored mood in coats, suits and dresses. It also pulls together the important matched blouse and skirt, giving it continuity and a one-piece dress feeling.

End Is Demanded Of Agnew Guard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats has ruled for the second time within two weeks that President Nixon has no legal authority to provide continued Secret Service protection for former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Staats said in a letter to Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., which Moss released today, that a Treasury Department claim the President's authority "is based on his inherent executive powers" is without foundation.

Moss immediately wrote Treasury Secretary George Shultz demanding Agnew's protection be ended, and he also wrote Chairman George Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee requesting that panel to investigate expenditure of funds for Agnew which were neither authorized nor appropriated.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said the White House had "no change" to announce in terms of Secret Service protection for Agnew.

"I am sure his (Staats) opinion will be considered in the White House."

Edward C. Schmultz, asistant treasury secretary, said that the President may authorize protection of Agnew or anyone else under his inherent executive power.

Staats ruled on Jan. 28 that Nixon had no legal authority to provide the protection which he said had cost $89,222 from Oct. 10, the day Agnew resigned, to Dec. 15, the latest date figures were available to Staats.

A spokesmen replied at that time "although the Treasury Department cannot speak for counsel to the President, we understand the President's authority is based on his inherent executive powers."

Snow, Traffic Force Nixon To Delay Exam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon left by car today for his yearly physical checkup, but a driving snowstorm and rush-hour traffic snarls forced him to return to the White House less than one hour later.

A presidential aide said the long-delayed physical would be rescheduled at a more convenient time.

A White House spokesman said the decision to turn back was made when an unexpected predawn snowstorm snarled all arteries in the metropolitan area.

The presidential limousine was on the George Washington Memorial Parkway in Virginia, headed for Bethesda Naval Medical Center in suburban Maryland via the Capital Beltway.

With cars skidding and stalled and traffic at a standstill, the President's chauffeur turned around and headed back to the White House.

No snow had been forecast, but it began falling about 5 a.m. and the prediction was for snow into the night and accumulations of up to six inches.

Nixon spent eight days in July at the hospital for treatment of viral pneumonia. He had his last thorough physical examination on Dec. 20, 1972 and had been scheduled to have his annual physical on Dec. 22 but postponed it indefinitely.

Nixon's personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, has been trying to get Nixon to have a complete physical for some time. "I've been pressing him," said Tkach.

Nixon has delayed the physical exam for nearly two months, saying "I keep putting it off."

The White House had informed reporters that Nixon would be leaving for the hospital about 8:30 a.m., but— as has been the custom in recent weeks—the news pool was left behind when the President left almost 30 minutes early.

White House spokesmen said the departure time was moved up because the snow was falling so heavily, but after 30 minutes in the car, the limousine turned back.

Finance Planning Series Planned

"Personal Finance Planning," a series of six programs by Alan B. Jones, account executive of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith of San Francisco, will begin Feb. 19 at the College of Marin.

Presentations on six consecutive Tuesdays will be at 7:30 p.m. in the college's physical education classroom 11. They are sponsored by the college's concert lecture series.

Jones topics will be economic and stock market outlook, planning and estate conservation, insurance and estate planning, wills and trusts, planning for the individual corporation and general financial planning.

Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, significant air pollution.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.
Other areas:
San Francisco, significant air pollution.
San Jose, heavy air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Mother-To-Be On Guard Duty

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Two and a half members of the Ed Grider family have been called to active National Guard duty to help deal with the truck strike.

Two of them are Grider and his wife, both members of the 1144th Transportation Battalion, based at Camp Lincoln.

The "half" is the Griders' second child, due in May.

"It's almost certainly the first time in Illinois history that a pregnant woman has been called to active duty," a captain in Mrs. Grider's unit said early today.

Comedy Set By Players At The Barn

"Ready When You Are, C.B.," a comedy by Susan Slade will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, starting Feb. 15 and running through March 16, by the Ross Valley Players at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Benefit performances have been set for 10 nights and 10 organizations.

Defense Boss Ready For Nuclear Gamble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger says a new U.S. "counterforce" nuclear targeting strategy could increase the risks of limited nuclear war.

But he said he hopes that the actual effect will be the opposite—to deter the Soviet Union from even small-scale attacks by increasing Moscow's uncertainty as to how the United States would respond.

The new targeting system puts greater emphasis on hitting Soviet military installations than in the past and less on targeting cities as a deterrent to a Soviet attack on the United States.

Schlesinger testified yesterday on the 1975 defense budget before the House Armed Services Committee. He put a $100 million price tag on the new targeting system and said most of the money will go into improved command and control for existing missiles, he said.

Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., asked Schlesinger if it was true as some argue that the new strategy somewhat increases the chances of nuclear war.

"I think that is a fair, logical inference," Schlesinger said. "But at the same time we believe that we will be increasing the deterrence to smaller scale attacks."

Later he added "the existence of a deterrent will hopefully prevent any outbreak of a conflict of this (small) order."

Schlesinger denied, under questioning by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., that his new counterforce strategy is the same as a counterforce strategy conceived in the 1950s—a means to wipe out an enemy's nuclear forces in a first strike.

"That sort of thing, the capability to dig out the other side's (missile) silos, would represent instability," he said. "But we are not in a position to attain a capability to wipe out the Soviet Union's second strike capability, nor can they do it to us."

Nevertheless, he said, money is needed to improve the accuracy of U.S. missiles and make their warheads bigger because the U.S. must maintain parity with the Russians.

Foundation Leader

Martin A. Paley, 43, president and chief executive of Lester Gorsline Associates of Tiburon, has been named executive director of the San Francisco Foundation. He is a specialist in health service planning.

Hill Takes Seat On BART Board

Hill, 39, was named last night to replace Ralph Neal, who resigned from the board after being appointed an official of the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency.

Hill said his "basic reaction to the present management is negative," but added he would investigate further before deciding whether he favored the firing of BART General Manager B. R. Stokes.

Mandarin House In San Rafael Offers Northern Chinese Cooking

Regional styles of Chinese cooking vary as much as the regional foods of France, Italy and other countries, including the United States.

Considering the size of China and the fact that its inhabitants do not move around from place to place as much as we do here, these differences are bound to remain particularly distinctive.

At the Mandarin House in San Rafael, the accent is on Chinese Mandarin cooking (northern style) as performed in the cultural center of Peking and on the western style of Szechuan. This is the little restaurant at 1559 Fourth Street which also offered northern Chinese cuisine under its former owners as Hsin Hsin and until last August as The Forbidden City - but not nearly on the scale that it does now.

Present owners Peter and Lillian Tien have made a number of changes for the better - in decor, menu and now in size. They have recently added on extra table space, bringing the seating capacity up to about 80.

Even so, reservations for dinners on weekends are a must - for the Tiens are not without a considerable personal following. Peter was formerly a partner in the Chung King in San Francisco's Chinatown. And before that he had two restaurants in China — big ones, that sometimes pulled in a thousand persons a night. By training he's a graduate civil engineer. But he gave it up for the restaurant and hotel business in which he also took specialized training.

His Chinese menu is not the type you see very often. I counted over 130 dishes and Peter claims he's prepared to provide every one of them, although some, such as Peking Duck, Eight Precious Duck and Beggar's Chicken require advance notice. Others like crab salted in fermented bean sauce, crab with ginger and green onions, crab in brown bean sauce, fresh mushrooms with powdered crab and vinegar fish are seasonal.

There are two family-type dinners for two or more at $2.95 and $3.95 per person. But if you have any imagination at all you'll want to make your own combination of a la carte dishes. This you could do once a week for several years without a complete duplication. Or listen to the Tiens when they make a few suggestions to help you.

Our own dinner, for example, consisted of delicious fried Chinese dumplings filled with pork and vegetables, a tantalizing hot and sour soup, assorted vegetables with egg rolled at the table in paper-thin crepes, rice and some of the ginger crab. For two it was more than enough. Four could have dined on it sumptiously, with maybe one more dish added. Form a group of six, order the enormous Peking duck ($15) in advance, add a few more dishes and you'll have a feast.

The Tiens also have a good selection of California vintages - and several of the choice wines of China.

ANOTHER NEW RESTAURANT opened a few days ago in Petaluma — this one serving French and Basque food.

It's called L'Auberge Basque and is located at 122 Washington Street, where the Little Germany Restaurant used to be. New owners Gabriel and Suzanne Elicetche, formerly of San Francisco, have bought out Walter Jeltsch, who probably will relocate elsewhere — at least a delicatessen — at a later date.

Gabriel was formerly a chef at Victor's in San Francisco and also at the St. Francis Hotel. This is his first restaurant venture on his own. He and Suzanne have made a few touches of their own nationality at 122 Washington Street and are offering a French and Basque menu of veal, beef and chicken dishes. Lunches are served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays. Dinners are Tuesdays through Sundays from 5 to 10 p.m. Closed Mondays.

Complete dinners, including soup, salad and dessert are in the $3.95 - $6.50 range. A la carte appetizers like escargots and a few side dishes are also to be had, along with California and imported wines and domestic and imported beers.

A COMPLETE CHANGE of menu has taken place at the Fondue Factory on Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

Except that it would be encroaching on a certain San Francisco restaurant's prerogative, the name could well be changed to the Spaghetti Factory. No more quiche, no more fondues — the same owner York Fischer still has them at the Fondue Pot in Corte Madera seven nights a week. But they're out in Larkspur.

Spaghetti is the order of the Fondue Factory's evening menu Tuesdays through Sundays from 6 p.m. Served with a choice of four different sauces — meat, meatless, cheese and oil and garlic — together with a salad and garlic bread, this will run you $2 - $2.50, plus whatever you care to add for wine or beer or dessert.

CHEF RENE LAMBERT at Ristorante Topolino in Sausalito has been getting all sorts of requests for his recipe for veal Florentine, as the result of a television appearance on Channel 7 last week. He's also offering it to others for the asking.

I'd suggest making sure your version comes out the way it's served at Ristorante Topolino by going there for dinner first and trying it

NO ONE IS MORE CONSCIOUS of highway driving than Pete and Doris Lind at Shipwreck Pete's in Novato. Too long they were practically isolated by road repair on the 101. Then when the work was finally completed, people got in the habit of whizzing by in a hurry — probably remembering their former chagrin at being detoured along here.

Now the Linds are trying to slow things down again — not for themselves alone, but in the spirit of gas conservation and the new speed limit. So they are offering free "Be Thrifty - Drive 50" bumper stickers.

WE ARE SORRY TO REPORT the closing of the Paprika restaurant on Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley — apparently for financial reasons. We sincerely hope that Stephen and Sabina Wyle will find it in their future to open again at another Marin location.

THERE HAVE BEEN several such closings since our annual Dining and Wining Guide for Marin and Sonoma Counties was printed a year ago. But there have also been a number of new openings and changes of ownership — all resulting in an even greater selection of eating places.

So it's time for a new guide, updated in closings, new openings, changes of ownership, operation and prices. If you're still holding on to the old one, you can throw it away next Thursday when that day's issue of the Independent-Journal will include a 36 or possibly 40-page tabloid section given over to recent information on dining out.

CHARGE OF THE BIKE BRIGADE

These riders — dwarfed by the majestic Grand Tetons, their pennants as jaunty as any that waved above England's Bengal Lancers or knights of old charging giants — were caught by Martha Van Genderen of Ross on a recent visit to Jackson Hole, Wyo. The brilliantly colored pennants are becoming a more and more frequent sight on Marin roads. Mounted on a flexible rod of plastic or metal, they help motorists spot cyclists and contribute to biking safety.

FTC Seeks Labeling Of Detergents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today proposed that detergent makers be required to list all ingredients and their function on the package so consumers will know what they're buying and what it's supposed to do.

The agency said the proposal, which will not be made final for at least two months, was designed to help buyers avoid chemicals to which they or their family may suffer allergic or other adverse reactions. It said the rules would also help shoppers more intelligently choose among the many brands.

Under the proposal, any package containing more than one pound or holding more than one pint (and that covers most of the standard sizes) would have to list the ingredients by order of their predominance in the product.

A package, for example, might say "Bleach (sodium perborate 10 per cent); anticaking & anticorrosion agent (sodium silicate 7 per cent); foam booster (lauryl alcohol 1.5 per cent)" and so on.

Three ingredients — "optical brighteners," perfume and coloring—may be listed that way without further explanation. Packages smaller than one pound or one pint would have to list the chemical name and its percentage, but would not have to add the explanation for what it's supposed to do.

Guardsman Relates Kent State Fears

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Ohio national guardsmen believed they were in danger during an antiwar rally at Kent State University when four students were killed and nine others wounded in a 13-second hail of guard fire during a confrontation nearly four years ago, one guardsman testified yesterday.

Sgt. Myron C. Pryor was with Guard Troop G, many of whose members have admitted firing in the direction of the students. He talked with newsmen after testifying 4 ½ hours before a federal grand jury probing the incident.

" They (demonstrators) were converging awfully fast and there were a lot of missiles being thrown," he said. He estimated there were "100 plus" students and that they approached within 20 to 30 feet of the troops.

"At one point," he added, "I thought we were going to have bodily contact with them."

He denied that there was a conspiracy among the guardsmen to fire, and also that he himself had fired.

Photographs showed Pryor leveling a pistol toward the demonstrators. He explained "I told them (the jurors) I pointed my weapon but I did not fire."

Pryor said he felt "very bad" about the deaths of four students.

"The bad thing about riots is that a lot of innocent people get hurt," he added.

He also said that in his opinion the jury, convened in December, may be getting toward the end of its information-gathering phase.

"I think they have heard a tremendous amount of testimony," he said. "I don't know how many more will testify, but I feel they are coming to the end and will deliberate and decide what the situation calls for."

MUSIC REVIEW

Western Opera Has Fun With 'Barber'

By VERA M. OLMSTED

One of the most enduring favorites in opera repertoire, Gioacchini Rossini's engaging comic opera "The Barber of Seville," drew a capable and spirited interpretation from the Western Opera Theater last night at the College of Marin Fine Arts Theater.

Though this work is frequently performed in the Bay Area, this did not prevent a sizeable number of people from attending and the large auditorium was comfortably filled.

Western Opera Theater is a touring branch of the San Francisco Opera, established to provide repertory experience for young singers, and give audiences well-prepared productions at reasonable prices.

Obviously, everything has to be kept simple and easily portable for this kind of undertaking. The set was compact, sturdy but still imaginative — easily changed from a street scene to an indoor room. Costumes were rich and colorful.

The text was sung in English, as is usual with Western Opera and the orchestra was replaced by two grand pianos in the pit. Singers and musicians were conducted by Allan Lewis, who kept things moving without a lag.

An opera's popularity with the public should not necessarily be held against it. "The Barber's" durability lies in the artful combination of a humorous story line, cleverly deliniated characterizations of the principals, and an extremely melodious score. Quite impressive when you realize Rossini wrote it in 13 days.

The plot revolves around old Dr. Bartolo, who wishes to marry his beautiful young niece, Rosina, and her efforts (together with the man she really loves), to foil her guardian. Rosina's suitor pretends to be a poor, simple man, but of course turns out to be the handsome, rich Count Almaviva.

Figaro, the loquacious barber and jack-of-all-trades, agrees to help the young lovers (naturally for a good price), and after several misadventures, Rosina and the count are finally married.

Productions of this opera often suffer from one of two faults — either the acting is wooden and contrived, or overplayed for laughs. Last night's cast steered clear of excess.

All of the voices were more than adequate, and some were particularly notable because of combined acting and vocal skill.

Lawrence Cooper carried off the role of Figaro with panache. He was confident on stage, always in character, almost constantly in motion, but never in a distracting way. Cooper has a clear, well-developed baritone voice, and an engaging manner.

Judith Dickison was saucy as Rosina, if occasionally overexpressive facially. Modesto Crisci has a pleasant tenor voice, but somehow seemed too youthful to be convincing as the well-born Count Almaviva. Suspicious old Doctor Bartolo was well sung by James Hooper; and Joyce Gerber was amusing in her role as the sneezing housekeeper. Bass Carl Thomas was particularly good in both voice and character as the oily Don Basilio.

The hilarious fast-patter ensembles involving three to six characters were all done extremely well, and were highly disciplined throughout. In fact, the opera was given a consistently good, attractive production all evening.

Maria Callas Puts Down Her Brooklyn Birth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maria Callas yesterday denied reports that she was born in Brooklyn and insisted she made her first appearance in Manhattan, adding, "You can't believe half you read about me."

Here for a press conference before starting her comeback tour of the United States in Philadelphia, the 50-year-old soprano said, "I stopped singing because I wasn't happy the way I was singing. I knew well it wasn't like it used to be." Her last American appearance was at the Metropolitan Opera in 1965.

Miss Callas and her singing partner, tenor Giuseppe di Stefano, will also sing in New York, Toronto, Washington, Boston, Chicago, Indianapolis, Detroit, Dallas, Miami Beach, Columbus, Montreal, Cincinnati, Seattle, Portland, Vancouver, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Lib Leader Lets Fly With Lettuce

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — Feminist Gloria Steinem, informed at a banquet that her tossed salad contained nonunion lettuce, walked outside the building last night and dumped the salad on the ground.

About a dozen University of North Carolina students marched out with Ms. Steinem and also disposed of their salads.

IN CONCERT — Mack McCray, prize-winning pianist will present a concert at 8:15 p.m., Feb. 20 in the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building sponsored by the Marin Concert Association, in the fourth concert of the current season.

Councilmen Pay Measure Backed

A measure on the March 5 municipal election ballot in Larkspur giving councilmen a $50 per meeting salary up to $150 per month has been endorsed by the steering committee of the Larkspur Town Meeting.

Sallyanne Wilson, a member of the committee, said it is made up of Larkspur residents who meet irregularly to plan the annual town meeting.

FAMILY

"Chariots of the Gods" — Beautiful photographic exploration of Von Daniken's theory — that extraterrestrial beings have visited earth. Documentary.

"Son of Flubber" — This 1963 sequel to "Absent-Minded Professor" is reissued. In striving to perfect a rain-making device a professor produces a crop of mammoth vegetables.

Super Dad" — A well meaning father in an effort to break up a childhood romance arranges for a scholarship for his daughter at a college far away from home. When she discovers this plot she gets revenge by getting engaged to a radical-artist-type hippie.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"American Graffiti" — Well-made film captures look of life in the 1950s as four high school grads cruise through one night. Cursing and some suggestive sex scenes.

"Salzburg Connection" — Inept spy thriller has plot so confusing it dispels any suspense. A horde of international spies descend on Salzburg, Austria in search of a cache of Nazi documents. Violence.

"Seven-Ups" — A special undercover police force are after criminals whose felonies are punishable by 7 years or more in prison. A cop uses a boyhood friend as an informer, who is plotting a kidnapping on his own. Much action and violence.

"Sleeper" — This sophisticated comedy combines science-fiction with satire and slapstick. Our hero is frozen, after an operation fails, in 1973 and defrosted in 2173. A computerized world provides hilarious opportunities for Woody Allen. Many sexual references.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Black Belt Jones" — A Mafia chief tries to gain control of land on which a self-defense school for blacks stands. Fight scenes are almost free of blood-splattering but plenty of violence, vulgar language and sex.

"Fanstic Planet" — Full length, animated cartoon science-fiction set in distant future and related in surrealistic terms. Eerie electronic soundtrack, dubbed French subtitles. Story of reversal, humans as miniscule vermin in a world of purple giants. The giants exterminate humans the way people eliminate roaches. Brutality — nudity. (Catholic Film Newsletter)

"Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean" — A wanted man takes over a lawless Texas town in 1890 and rules it according to his own eccentric code. Cursing, violence.

"Mr. Q" — Suspense-thriller about a detective who sets out to find the killer of his partner. Illicit drugs figure heavily in story set in Seattle. Fine cast, well acted. Violence. (MMP&TVC)

"Serpico" — An engrossing true story about an honest policeman in New York who fought a one-man war against corruption in order to live on his own terms. Although story has sex, nudity and violence it also has warmth and humor.

"Steelyard Blues" — Satirical comedy about a $100-a-trick-hooker and a group of zany characters, attempting to rebuild a plane with stolen parts. Violence, vulgarities and sex.

"The Sting" — Film sounds like manual for con-men in this cold and calculating account of a 1930s plan to ruin a powerful Chicago mobster. Violence and cursing.

"The Way We Were" — A humorous love story that starts in the 1930s and ends in the 1950s. An idealistic politically radical young woman and a well-to-do apolitical young man make an odd couple.

ADULTS ONLY

"Don't Look Now" — Based on short story of Daphne Du Maurier this film tells of an English couple in Venice being warned of impending danger to the husband by a blind psychic. The message is ignored and the worst happens. A very explicit and erotic love scene earns the rating.

"Images" — The erotic fantasies of a deranged young woman makes for an over-long study and requires patience to sit through. Violence and nudity.

Slide Show Set

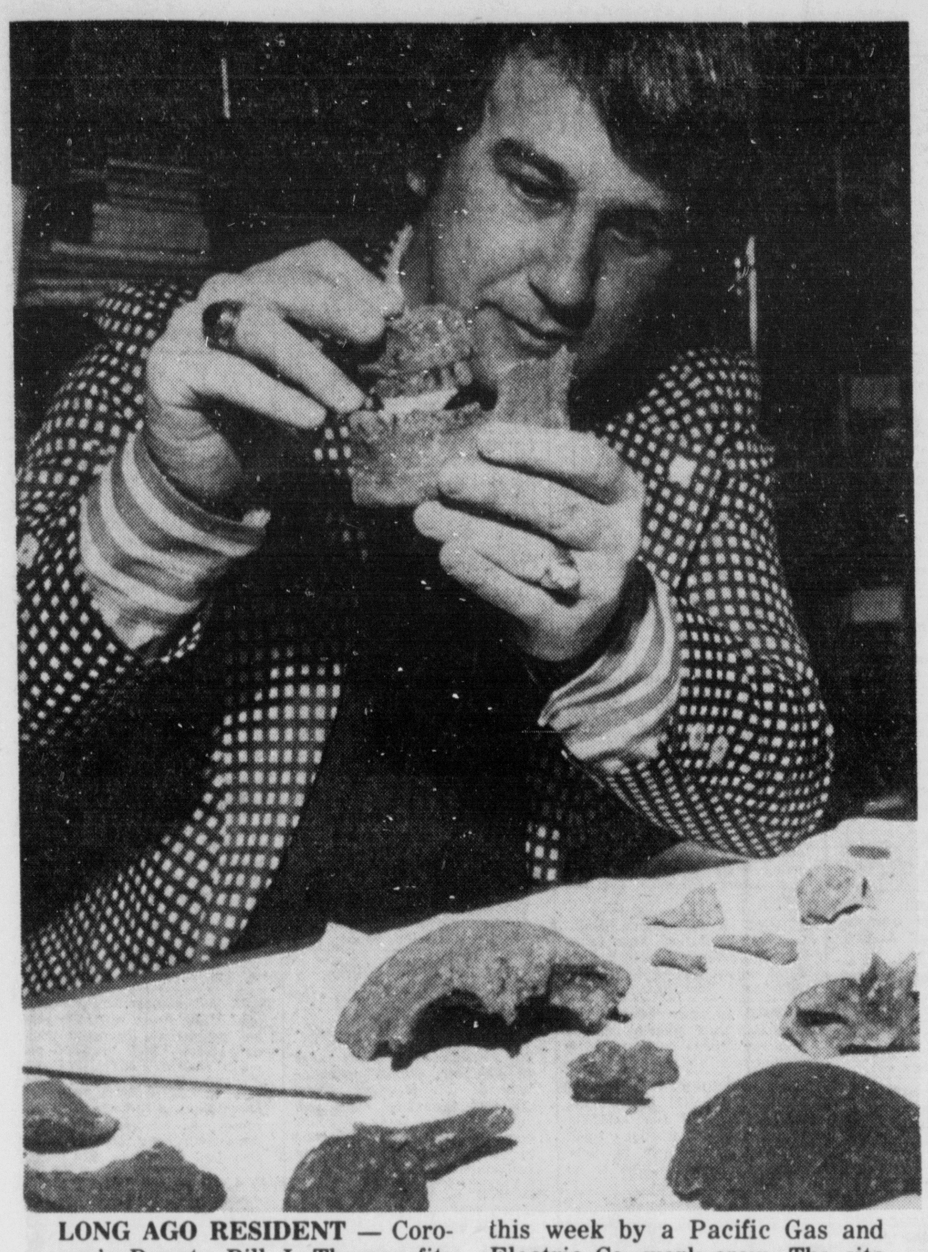
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1974 23



LONG AGO RESIDENT — Coroner's Deputy Bill J. Thomas fits together parts of the jaw of an ancient skull turned up in Tiburon this week by a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. work crew. The site is said to have been a burial ground of the Miwok Indians.

BELIEVE MIWOK INDIAN WOMAN

Work Crew Uncovers Human Bones On Tiburon Pipeline

Coroner's deputy Bill J. Thomas has a jigsaw puzzle of sorts to put together today — some 70 bone fragments found this week by a work crew in Tiburon.

Thomas, a student of anthropology for four months, claims to be no expert, but he said the bones appear to be the remains of a Miwok Indian woman in her 30s.

Tiburon police spent an hour at the work site Wednesday carefully shoveling dirt into a screen to reclaim pieces of skull, vertebrae, ribs, shoulder blades and arms.

Barney Gannon of Petaluma, a foreman for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., said his crew was digging a pipeline between Tiburon Boulevard and the bicycle path near San Rafael Avenue.

As his backhoe tore into the soil, Gannon noticed a skull embedded in the scooped-up dirt. But when he dumped the dirt to have a closer look, the skull shattered.

Thomas's anthropology tutor, Dr. Roger Hegler of San Francisco State University, was to view the bones and may confirm Thomas's preliminary findings.

While at the site, Thomas said, a neighbor came out and said he too had found old bones while excavating a septic tank a few years ago.

Other neighbors say the area is well-known locally as a Miwok Indian burial ground.

Thomas based his guess on the sex and age of the Indian on several clues. The roundness of the jaw and the small size of the hip socket indicate they belonged to a woman, while the well-worn teeth suggest an age of 35 to 40, he said.

"The Indians ate lots of sand in their food, and it's characteristic that the teeth of an adult would be worn down like this," he said.

After Thomas and Hegler have studied the find, the coroner's deputy said the College of Marin is interested in adding the bones to its collection of Indian artifacts and remains.

Prison Unrest Curbs Output Of Furniture

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Work stoppages and lockups in California's strife-torn prisons have caused a heavy backlog of orders and forced the state into the open market for wooden furniture and other articles, state officials said yesterday.

"They make a fine product," said Robert Vance, an assistant state purchasing agent, "but our requirements are exceeding their ability to produce."

Robert Lawson, general manager for correctional industries, said recent lockups in San Quentin, Soledad, Folsom and Deuel Vocational Institutions have "caused real problems" in meeting deadlines on production orders for state agencies.

At San Quentin, William D. Nyberg, prison information officer, said that fewer men now are assigned to the furniture factory there than were before the recent lockups, "but first indications are that production is equal or above" what it was before.

However, he added, the state is always behind on orders and shut-downs in the last few weeks caused orders to stack up more than usual.

San Quentin is slowly resuming normal schedules but most inmates still are not on work programs.

Most prison factories were closed during January and there were slowdowns and stoppages during December, according to Lawson.

Vance said it costs taxpayers more when the state deals with commercial firms rather than prisons, but he added that the savings are made in paperwork and time it takes to close a deal.

San Rafael General Plan Set For Public Hearings

The San Rafael Planning Commission will review the city's preliminary general plan in a series of 13 public hearings over the next three months, according to the city planning department.

Seven of the sessions will include public discussion of the preliminary plan, while the remainder will be open to the public but with discussion limited to commissioners.

The first public hearing, which will include citizen participation, will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday in city hall. The meeting will concern basic goals, policies, procedures and application of the plan.

All other meetings will be held at 8 p.m.

Other sessions at which public discussion will be allowed, and topics to be discussed, are: Feb. 25, the natural environment; March 5, the housing and residential environment; March 19, the economic environment; April 2, transportation; April 16, implementation procedures and reconsideration of basic goals and policies of the plan, and April 29, general review of all recommendations.

Public hearings limited to discussion by planning commissioners, to be held in the public works conference room in city hall, are set for: Feb. 19 and 27; March 7 and 21; April 4 and 18.

The planning commission has been directed by the city council to submit recommendations on the plan by May.

New Commuter Line At Gnoss Field Supported

The Marin County Aviation Commission has endorsed a proposal for a new commuter airlines operation out of Gnoss Field, north of Novato.

Mario Balestrieri, deputy director of the county public works department, said the commission on Tuesday endorsed the proposal which is already pending before the State Public Utilities Commission.

It was submitted by Richard Duste, president of Marin Aviation at Gnoss Field, and calls for four scheduled commuter flights daily to points in California.

The flights would be to Bakersfield, Lake Tahoe, and Crescent City with stops in Santa Rosa, Sacramento, Stockton, Fresno, San Francisco and Merced, among other places.

The proposal is before the PUC because all flights would be within California and therefore not subject to certain federal regulations.

Balestrieri said the four planes will be twin-engine craft with seating capacity for 12 passengers. He said it is similar to last year's Golden Pacific Airlines proposal that never got off the ground.

He said the commission also was told the county has received an environmental impact report on the proposed Gnoss Field master plan.

Centennial Post Marks Announced

San Rafael Centennial handstamp cancellations showing the date of Feb. 18 — the 100th anniversary of the city's incorporation — will be applied to all envelopes sent to the San Rafael Post Office with a request for the special treatment, Postmaster Hugh Cassidy announced today.

The decorative cancellation was designed by Frederick Dekker, artist member of the San Rafael Centennial Committee. It shows the city name and date in a circle, joined by the legend "100 Years" to a representation of mission bells.

1. Put correct postage on envelopes to be hand-canceled.

2. Address envelopes to yourself or the person you wish to receive them.

3. Put envelopes inside a separate, larger envelope addressed to: San Rafael Centennial Cancellation, c/o Postmaster, San Rafael, Calif. 94901.

Arrangements for the special cancellation handling were made by Dr. Howard Levenson, who heads a centennial postal cachet project sponsored by the San Rafael Lions Club.

Dr. Levenson announced today that an additional 500 cacheted envelopes, bearing the official centennial seal, have been printed because an original printing of 500 already has been exhausted. These envelopes also will receive the Feb. 18 handstamp cancellation. They may be ordered at Grand Stamp Center, 969 Grand Avenue.

Feb. 18 is a post office holiday (Washington's Birthday) but that date nevertheless will be used in the hand cancellations.

Development Of Music Will Be Concert Feature

Development of music from ancient tribal rhythms of Africa to today's complex tonal experiments is the theme of the second concert of the Children's Concert Series at both 10 and 11 a.m. Feb. 16 at the College of Marin, Fine Arts Theater, sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association.

The program will feature vocal chanting, old and new dances, and a history of when each instrument came into being.

Reed Benet of Belvedere and Julie Pavlovsky of San Rafael, the winners of the narrator's contest held earlier this year, will also be featured in the program.

Youth Positive On Bandit Pair

By GEORGE NEVIN

The prosecution's chief witness in a robbery and assault case testified yesterday he is positive that two San Rafael men held up a Greenbrae ice cream store and shot him twice.

H. Eric Newlin, 17, of San Anselmo, named Raymond McFarland, 31, and James William Frisby, 24, as the men responsible for the $200 robbery of Swensen's Ice Cream on Oct. 27.

"Is there any doubt in your mind that McFarland is the man who shot you?" asked deputy Dist. Atty. Raymond E. Gilbert.

"No," Newlin answered.

"And is there any doubt that Frisby was the driver of the car?" Once again, Newlin said no.

The Sir Francis Drake High School student's testimony came in the fourth day of the trial. The case is expected to last through next week.

Newlin testified he went to the Bon Aire Shopping Center to pick up Michael Willis, a friend who worked there. But his suspicious were aroused when he saw Frisby, a former employee of the store who had been fired the week before.

After warning Willis and another employee, Thomas Davidson, Newlin withdrew to the parking lot and watched Frisby sitting in his car. Moments later, McFarland appeared and the two sped off.

Tailing their car to the Hutchinson quarry east of Highway 101, the heavy-set Newlin said McFarland jumped from the car and shot him in the chest and head.

Belvedere's Sewage Plan Views Wanted

The Belvedere City Council has been asked to give its opinion on whether the Tiburon Sanitary District should hire Bio-Kinetics of San Rafael to improve sewage treatment at the district's plant.

District board president James Murray said that Bio-Kinetics, whose representatives include Tiburon City Councilman Allan M. Littman, proposed to build an addition to the Tiburon district plant for algae treatment for wastewater. The firm then would lease the new facility to the district at a rental of $113,000 per year, plus the costs of electrical power to run it.

For several weeks, the board has debated whether to choose the Bio-Kinetics plan or to pump its effluent to a joint Southern Marin sewage treatment plant proposed for building at Point San Quentin.

Murray said the board, after listening to firm representatives last night, voted to delay a decision another 30 days to give Belvedere, which pumps its sewage to the district plant, a chance to give its opinion. He said a committee including Belvedere Councilman Thomas Price, sanitary district board member Morrill R. Woodward and sanitary plant Supt. Lawrence Haynes will study cost of the Bio-Kinetics plan further in the meantime.

Previous studies by the district's engineering firm, John Carollo Engineers of Walnut Creek, have shown that the tax rate under the Bio-Kinetics proposal would be $1.21 per $100 assessed valuation for Tiburon residents and 68 cents for Belvedere. Under a combined sewage treatment system for Southern Marin the rate would be 84 cents for Tiburon and 52 cents for Belvedere, according to the engineering firm.

Old Adobe Board Hires An Auditor

A one-year $1,325 contract with the Petaluma auditing firm of Wadsworth, Smith, Mohrman and Dado was approved last night by the Old Adobe Union School District board.

The firm will serve as district auditor for the 1973-74 school year, according to district Supt. Dean D. Magowan.

The Old Adobe Board of Education also:

FURNACE — Awarded a $10,226 contract for replacement of two furnaces at the Bernard E. Eldredge School to Reliance Enterprises of Santa Rosa, lowest of three bidders.

TRANSFER — Urged the Petaluma School District to take over a noncontiguous part of the Old Adobe district, located in northern Petaluma, so students will not have to be bused.

CONTRACT — Provided for a three-year contract with the superintendent, as suggested by state education authorities, rather than the present four-year one.

LEAVE — Granted a one-year leave of absence to fourth grade teacher Ray Nottingham so he can study European educational systems.

Sonoma's Sheriff To Run Again

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County Sheriff Donald Striepeke announced yesterday he will run for a second term.

The 44-year-old sheriff said he wishes to finish the work begun during his initial term.

"My aim is crime prevention by more effective law enforcement and by community relations programs to increase citizen respect for, and cooperation with, the sheriff's office," he said.

His original pledge of "firm but fair application of the law" will continue to be his basic policy if he is reelected, Striepeke said.

Before his election in 1970, he was a law enforcement officer for the state Forestry Division, based in Santa Rosa, and he was a liaison officer between the division and the attorney general's office.

NOTICE TO THE PERSON SERVED

( ) You are served as (or on behalf of) the person sued under the fictitious name of: _____

YOU ARE HEREBY DIRECTED to appear and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Marin, within thirty days after service on you of this summons. Otherwise your default will be entered on application by the plaintiff and the court may enter a judgment against you for the relief requested in the complaint.

IF YOU WISH TO SEEK THE ADVICE OF AN ATTORNEY IN THIS MATTER, YOU SHOULD DO SO PROMPTLY SO THAT YOUR PLEADING, IF ANY, MAY BE FILED ON TIME.

The purpose of this action is to condemn and take by right of eminent domain the respective property interests, if any, of the named defendants in the right to enforce or have enforced certain covenants running with the land, which are recorded as Document No. 15110 in 2462 O.R. 160 Marin County Records, a copy of which said covenants is attached hereto as Exhibit A and by this reference made a part hereof, insofar as said covenants prevent plaintiff from constructing, operating and maintaining a satellite earth station, and from engaging in all conduct incident thereto, on those certain parcels of real property situated in the County of Marin, State of California, which plaintiff has purchased or obtained and elected to exercise an option to purchase, a description of which real property is attached hereto as Exhibit B and by this reference made a part hereof; and insofar as said covenants prevent plaintiff from using a presently existing nonexclusive access easement to serve as a right-of-way to and from the real property described in Exhibit B hereto; said access easement is recorded in that certain Record of Survey entitled "Record of Survey Portion of Soula Jule Ranch" filed October 14, 1971 in Book 10 of Surveys, at page 66, Marin County Records. A legal description of said access easement is attached hereto as Exhibit C and by this reference made a part hereof.

Plaintiff is informed and believes that certain of the defendants in the above-referred to action claim that said access easement is not appurtenant to and for the benefit of the real property described in Exhibit B hereto if said real property is used for the construction, operation and maintenance of a satellite earth station, and any conduct incidental thereto. Therefore, should the Court find valid such claims, if any, the purpose of this action also is to condemn and take by right of eminent domain said access easement.

Plaintiff desires to condemn defendants' said respective property interests, if any, in order to construct, operate and maintain said satellite earth station, and to engage in all conduct incident thereto, as described in plaintiff's complaint, for use in connection with plaintiff's communications business.

You are hereby notified to appear and show cause why said property interests, if any, should not be condemned as prayed for in the complaint on file therein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Marin, this 26th day of November, 1973.

THIS DECLARATION made May 5, 1971, by Soula Jule Ranch, a partnership, hereinafter called "DECLARANT".

WHEREAS, DECLARANT is the owner of a certain ranch in Marin County, California, consisting of approximately 1800 acres, described in that certain record of survey entitled, "Record of Survey Soula Jule Ranch 2040 O.R. 644, Marin County Records, California", filed June 27, 1969, in Book 8 of Surveys, Page 54, Marin County Records, and

1. MUTUAL, RECIPROCAL BENEFITS, ETC.

All of said restrictions, conditions, covenants and agreements shall be made and shall be deemed made for the direct and mutual and reciprocal benefit of said land and of each parcel to be divided or sold out of it, to create mutual and equitable servitudes upon each of said parcels in favor of each other parcel, to create reciprocal rights and obligations between the respective owners of said parcels, and to create a privity of estate and contract between and among the grantees of said parcels, their heirs, successors and assigns, and shall as to the owners of each parcel in said tract, his heirs, successors and assigns, operate as covenants running with the land for the benefit of all other parcels.

2. TERM OF RESTRICTIONS.

Provided, however, that if any parcel is sold under a foreclosure of any mortgage or under the provisions of any deed of trust, any purchaser at such sale, his or its heirs, successors, or assigns, shall hold said parcel subject to all of the restrictions, conditions, covenants and agreements herein contained, all other provisions of this Declaration, and subject to assessments thereafter levied by Soula Jule Ranch Company.

23. VIOLATION OF RESTRICTIONS, ETC.

Violation of any of the restrictions, conditions, covenants and agreements herein contained shall give to DECLARANT, its successors and assigns, and to Soula Jule Ranch Company, the right to enter upon the property on which the violation or breach exists, and to summarily abate and remove at the expense of the owner, any thing or condition which may exist thereon contrary to the provisions hereof, without being deemed guilty of trespass. The result of every action or ommission whereby and restriction, condition, covenant or agreement is violated is hereby declared to be and constitute a nuisance, and every remedy allowed by law against a nuisance, either public or private, shall be applicable against every such result. Such remedy shall be deemed cumulative and not exclusive.

Quadraplegic Thinks Of Others Now

The lanky 6-foot-5 counselor earned his doctorate at the University of Texas, where he completed an internship in counseling in 1972. He joined the VA staff last April.

"Not only do I bring experience and training to wheel chair victims, but I serve as an example to them — a stimulus," said Bivens, 35.

That adjustment, Bivens said, was a struggle. It took him 10 years and a hard look at death to know he wanted to live.

"I needed to know I was worth something in a wheel chair," he said. "I knew what I could do would be very limited. I would have to use my head."

Bivens said motivation is the hardest accomplishment for a cripple.

"That's why he is of so much value here," said Hiskey. "He has the rapport with patients that others don't have. There is less tendency for them to call on their problems as an excuse."

Bivens lives with the handicapped in his care eight hours a day, sharing some of their deepest fears and anxieties. But he's found even this sometimes isn't enough to inspire them. "I often have to poke and push and seek them out," he said.

During high school days in suburban Chicago, Bivens dove into shallow water in Lake Michigan and broke his neck.

"I seriously considered suicide when I found out I would be a cripple the rest of my life," Bivens said. "I think any patient that adapts in a constructive way must get close to that point to make the decision.

"I knew I would have to work it through and it took a lot of years of determined concentration."

The first is crisis: the feeling of total helplessness and a crumbling of defenses. Then retreat or withdrawal: a projection of anger or indifference. Acceptance follows, accompanied by depression and bitterness and, finally, adaption and change.

"All of a sudden a healthy man is faced with a complete reappraisal," Bivens said. "He has to learn to see himself as other do. It's no longer a choice of what he would like. He has to determine whether he can work, how he can work and how good he can."

Voice, Piano Recital Set

E. Gardner Rust and Larry Snyder of the Sonoma State College music faculty will present a voice and piano recital at noon Feb. 14 at the Ives Hall of Music on the Rohnert Park campus.

The program will include works by Handel, Brahms and Vaughn Williams.

Rust is a baritone who sang in the recent performance of "Street Scene" and has been on the campus six years.

Classes Offered

Workshops and classes in organic gardening, live foods, massage, tarot, silver flute, violin, mime, and theater are being offered by the Family Mix, the organization has announced. Further information may be had through the Switchboard of Marin.

New Comedy 'Good Times' Starts On CBS Tonight

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a new half-hour comedy series that bears watching on CBS-TV tonight. It's called "Good Times" and has all the earmarks of a hit show, especially in pace and writing.

It's about a family of poor blacks in Chicago and, as Florida Evans, a main character, promptly notes at the start of the proceedings, "This family ain't Ozzie and Harriet."

No, indeed. There's a great deal more spark and life in this television version of a ghetto clan, even though their ghetto apartment is a great deal less weary-looking than the real McCoy.

The show stars Esther Rolle and John Amos as Florida and James Evans, a husband-and-wife combination that first appeared in the hit "Maude" series. In this series, they've got three kids.

Tonight's effort, like most of those in "Maude" and other series by the production company of Bud Yorkin and Norman Lear, treads the thin line between sorrow and laughter with a caring step.

It concerns a chance James Evans gets for a government-funded union apprentice program starting at $2.50 an hour with a potential top of $4.25 per.

Now Evans is a member of what some call the hard-core unemployed. He seeks work, but can find only short-term odd jobs. With only a sixth-grade education and zero coins in the bank, he's definitely down but a long way from out. He never quits.

"The things that man has done to keep this family together," his wife sighs. "Dishwasher, night watchman, floorsweeper . . . and all those jobs were last week."

His light-fingered oldest son, James Jr., 17, returns from the grocery store laughing: "It's fun being rich. I've been down to that store a dozen times, but it's the first time I've been involved in a cash transaction."

Pop comes home to a party serenading him with, "For He's a Jolly Good Dude." His wife is asking if they can buy a color TV set to replace their old black and white model.

NEW SHOW — John Amos and Esther Rolle star as James and Florida Evens in a new comedy series, "Good Times," which will start tonight on the CBS television network.

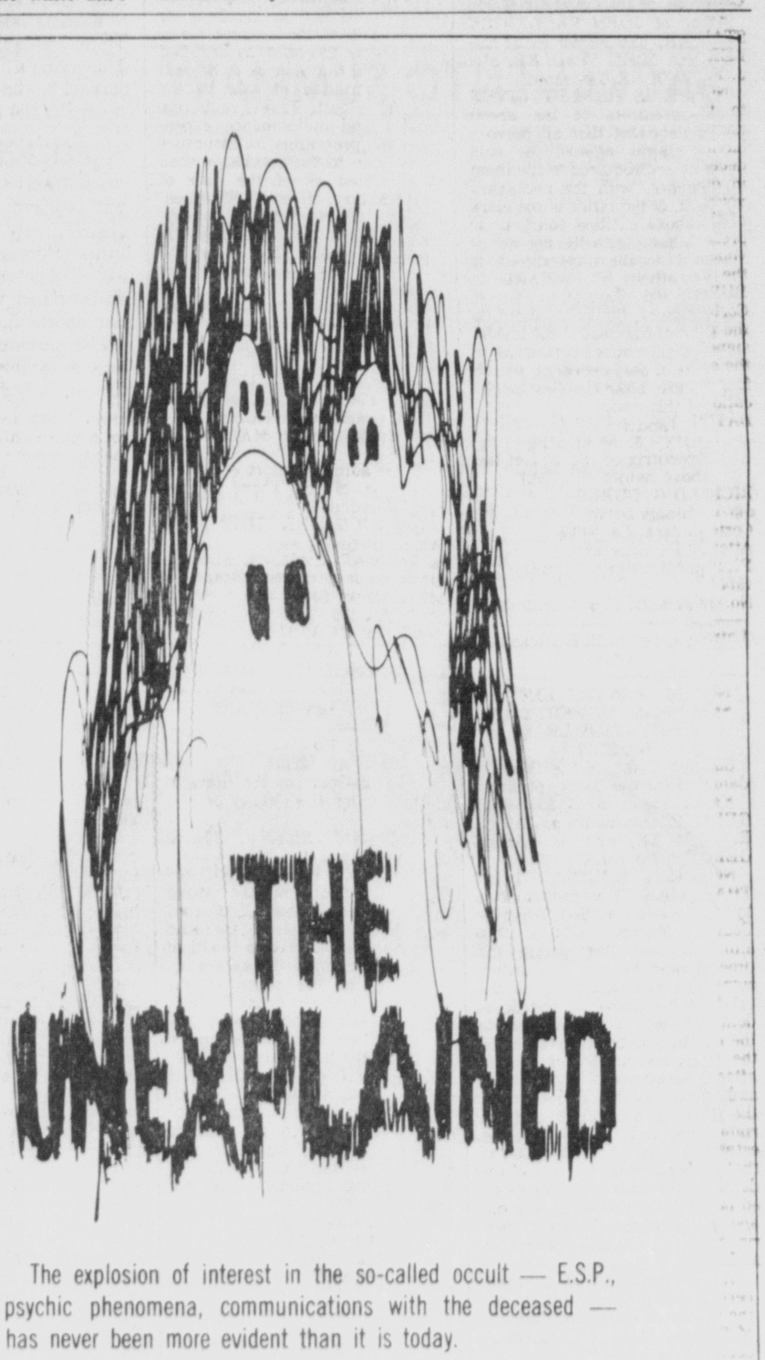
Fire Commission

The San Rafael Fire Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m., April 2 and not April 3 at the San Rafael Council Chambers. The Independent-Journal yesterday gave the wrong date for the meeting.



The explosion of interest in the so-called occult — E.S.P., psychic phenomena, communications with the deceased — has never been more evident than it is today.

Allen Spraggett, minister, writer, lecturer and reporter, is considered one of the top authorities in the world on the subject. His book THE UNEXPLAINED has sold more than 400,000 copies.

"I report objectively and accurately what has happened and is happening in the shadowy world of ghosts, premonitions, dreams of the future, supernormal healings and any other 'unexplained' phenomena," Spraggett said. "My object is not to convert or persuade but to inform and entertain."

Two Oakland Officers Die In Line of Duty

OAKLAND (UPI) — A young man who killed two policemen in a junior high school held his sister-in-law and her child, hostage before being shot and wounded yesterday.

Police said Johnny Richards, 25, was shot down in a bathroom of the apartment after fatally wounding Patrolmen John D. Brahnan, 29, and David E. Marks, 26, at Madison Junior High School.

The woman hostage and her 8-year-old child, whose identities were not released, were rescued from the apartment by two detectives wearing bullet-proof vests just before Richards was shot, police said.

Brahnan and Marks were in the school responding to a report that a man was creating a disturbance. Police said Richards apparently snatched a pistol from Marks and fired four or five times, killing the two officers.

Authorities said Richards then fled to his brother's apartment 200 yards away from the school, holding the woman and child as hostages. Police said he ignored orders to surrender.

After rescuing the hostages, Detective Sgts. Michael Weldon and Fred Lietzke, again ordered Richards to surrender from his bathroom hideout. When he refused to come out, police said, the officers burst in, firing.

Brahman and Marks were called to the school after Richards allegedly assaulted a school employe. Detectives said they did not know the reason for the dispute.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

$45 Million Program Unveiled For State Employee Benefits

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has unveiled his proposed $45 million program to improve benefits for state employees in the year beginning next July 1.

In a message to the legislature yesterday, Reagan said his proposal fulfills a pledge he made last year to present "a balanced program of employee benefits."

"The first-year program which I will propose for alloting the $45 million is focused on what state employees perceive as their highest priority need—increased take-home pay," Reagan said, noting the funds were included in his proposed 1974-74 state budget.

The governor said he is recommending that the state adopt a policy of considering prevailing practices in both salaries and benefits in setting employee compensation.

In the total compensation methods, he said, salaries and benefits are surveyed separately for comparability with prevailing practice and are adjusted separately.

Reagan said administration representatives will meet and confer on benefit proposals with interested employee organizations to develop enabling legislation.

Also to be discussed at the meetings with employe organizations, he said, will be:

Increasing the state's share of medical insurance to 80 per cent for employees and 50 per cent for dependents.

Establishing a fully-paid life insurance program to improve on present lump sump death benefits provided by the state employees retirement system.

Eliminating election day as a state holiday and placing one holiday on a "floating" basis so it can be taken at the convenience of the employee.

POLICE PROBES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill requiring local police and sheriff's departments to establish a procedure for investigating citizens' complaints against officers has won final legislative approval.

The measure (AB1305) by the late Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday on a 24-2 vote of the Senate.

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, complained the legislation would be a burden on local areas and serves as "a potential agitation source."

Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, argued it would improve community-police relations. He said the bill was supported by district attorneys and peace officers associations.

BENEFIT CHECKS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients can expect their problems in receiving benefits to continue for several more months under the new federally-administered aid programs, the legislature was told yesterday. Effective Jan. 1, the federal government took over control of the socalled adult aid programs and since then thousands of recipients in California have reported missing welfare checks and related benefits.

"We had to expect the first four or five months were going to be bumpy. There's going to be pain; people are going to be hurt," Alameda County Welfare Director Jack McKay told a joint legislative committee.

Warriors Find Pistons Too Hot

OAKLAND (UPI) — Is there a better team in the National Basketball Association right now than the Detroit Pistons?

The red-hot Detroit team cooled off a Golden State Warriors squad which had won eight straight 110-86 last night in the lone NBA game on the schedule.

That made the Pistons 26-8 since Dec. 1 as they closed to within two games of Chicago and four of Milwaukee in the NBA's top division, the Midwest.

The Warriors' lead over Los Angeles was reduced to just a few percentage points as Golden State is 29-23 and Los Angeles 31-25. With those three red-hot teams in the Midwest Division, only the Pacific Division winner is likely to make the playoffs.

It was unheralded Willie Norwood, sporting a 6.9 scoring average, who equaled the entire Warrior team output as Detroit roared off to a 30-16 lead after the first period. The Pistons never slowed down their awesome pace and led 84-58 after three quarters before the reserves finished up on both sides.

Detroit hit 52 per cent of its shots as Norwood wound up with 27 points and George Trapp added 20.

Nate Thurmond battled Bob Lanier in the pivot in brilliant style as he scored 18 and grabbed 13 rebounds while Lanier, being tabbed by many as prime candidate for this season's Most Valuable Player, settled for 12 points and 11 rebounds.

But Rick Barry and Cazzie Russell, averaging over 20 points each, had six and eight respectively and the Warriors' chances for victory were as cold as they were.

The Warriors entertain Kansas City-Omaha tomorrow and call on Phoenix Sunday.

Redwood Vs. Stubborn Tam In Basketball

Redwood High School, looking forward to another shot at league-leading San Rafael on Wednesday, must first cope with Tamalpais High's stubborn basketball team tonight at 8 o'clock at College of Marin.

The rest of tonight's Marin County Athletic League schedule calls for San Rafael at Marin Catholic, Terra Linda at Novato and Drake at San Marin, all at 8 o'clock.

Redwood has a 7-2 record and trails unbeaten San Rafael by two games, so the Giants cannot afford a loss tonight. Their fans grimly recall that last year, in a similar situation, Tam engineered a 65-62 upset which practically killed the Giants' title chances.

"We'll have to play better than we did today to beat Tam," said Redwood coach Dick Hart after Tuesday's 54-50 victory over seventh-place San Marin.

Tam has a 4-5 record after Tuesday's 53-50 triumph over Marin Catholic. The Indians have played most of the league's better teams on even terms this year, but have few victories to show for it. Among their losses are a one-pointer to San Rafael, a two-pointer to Drake and a five-pointer to Redwood in their last meeting, 50-45.

A Redwood victory would set the stage for a head-on confrontation at San Rafael Wednesday at 4 p.m. All four MCAL games normally scheduled for Tuesday will be played Wednesday to avoid playing on the day after a holiday — Lincoln's birthday, to be a school holiday.

San Rafael (9-0) tonight confronts a Marin Catholic team which it walloped in the first meeting, 63-46. The Wildcats (3-6) carry a three-game losing streak into the meeting, and must face the menacing figure of 6-foot-7 Byron Stewart, who scored 41 points for the Bulldogs in their 72-55 triumph over Terra Linda Tuesday.

Drake (6-3) has bounced back from its mid-season debacle of three straight losses to win its last two games, including an 87-

DON'T STOP — Golfer Johnny Miller urged the ball to roll just a bit farther, but it stopped six inches short of the hole on his bid for a 35-foot birdie putt yesterday. 'SECOND SEASON'

Prep Wrestlers In League Meet

Wrestling's "second season," with its rearrangement of opponents and reshuffling of chances, will begin tomorrow with the Marin County Athletic League meet at Terra Linda High School.

Weigh-ins will be held from 7-8 a.m., with preliminary matches scheduled to start at 9 a.m. and finals due to begin around 4:30 or 5 p.m.

The meet is the first in a post-season series leading to the state meet the first weekend in March. The top two finishers in each weight class tomorrow will advance to the Division I meet next Saturday at Mt. Eden High in Hayward.

Several wrestlers who have been competing in a higher class than they actually weigh will drop down to their proper classes for the post-season meets, creating entirely new sets of opponents than they faced during the regular season.

One exciting move has Tamalpais High's Ron Ford, unbeaten in the MCAL against 115-pound opposition, dropping down to 106 for a presumed eventual confrontation with Redwood's Said Farah, also unbeaten in the MCAL.

Tam, which swept to the league title with a 6-0 record in dual matches, will drop several wrestlers. Keith Silverman gets the worst of it, since he will drop from 106 to the 98-pound weight already occupied by teammate Larry Sibbalauca, unbeaten in league.

San Marin, only 3-3 in league competition, boasts three top-seeded grapplers — Jeff Trahan (157), Tim Lessley (168) and Hal Wood (unlimited).

Third-place Redwood has Tom Schindler (148) and Mike Roush (178) seeded No. 1. Other top seeds are Arman Walker (130) of second-place Terra Linda, Pat McCracken (136) of Novato and Leonard Duff (141) of San Rafael.

The meet is open to the public, with a charge of 75 cents for students and $1.50 for adults.

Basketball Giants On The Army Team

They are big and they are rugged. That's a good description of the Army All-Stars team getting ready for the fourth annual East-West Basketball Classic at Terra Linda High Thursday.

Hal Fischer, 53-year-old coach at San Francisco's Presidio Army base, is assembling a team of soldiers to take to Norfolk, Va., for the interservice championships March 5-10. He will cut the 20-man squad to 16 right after the Terra Linda game and two more the following day, so you can see why the players won't be lagging.

For the players who make the team, it's basketball duty the next few months. For those who don't, it's back to some distant base for guard duty and all those other unpleasantries of Army life.

"THIS IS A MORE rugged team," said Fischer. "They really pound. The scrimmages so far have been mayhem on the court. Big bodies and nobody wants to give an inch. This is not a finesse team, it's an overpowering team. Physically, they could hold their own with the pros, but not shooting-wise."

Three of his players are already out of commission because of the heavy contact. And if you have never seen Amateur Athletic Union basketball, you may think basketball is a non-contact sport. To play AAU basketball you have to be rugged.

"Each year they get bigger and faster," said Fischer. "I don't know what they are eating."

BIGGEST OF THE BIGS is Garland Williams, 6-foot-9½ and 300 pounds, a Little All-America player from Southwest Louisiana College. Despite his size, Fischer says Williams consistently finishes in the upper third in team wind sprints.

Ted Campbell, North Carolina A&T, isn't exactly a midget at 6-7 and 280 pounds. Those two are among nine Army players back from last year's team which played at Terra Linda High. The game benefits the school's athletic department.

Doug Clevenger, 6-3 guard who was captain of West Point's basketball team in 1970, has been on Fischer's team for three years and that is remarkable considering the turnover in personnel Hal has to compete with each year. Most of his players are on two and three-year enlistments.

Fischer, former Corte Maderan now living in Santa Rosa, has been working with his present crop for two weeks. "I had to release eight players already because they were too far out of shape," he said.

THE BEST SHOOTERS on the team are not among the giants. Willie Collins, 5-10, from Bishop College in Dallas, Tex., was the fourth highest scorer in the nation in 1972 and seventh highest in '71, averaging 35 points a game. Robert Sherwin, 5-11, was the highest scorer at West Point and won all-tourney honors at the Cable Car Classic in 1970. Fischer feels these two are the best shooters in camp.

After the Terra Linda game and then the interservice championships, Fischer and his troops will fly to Baton Rouge, La., for the National AAU championships at Louisiana State, March 21-24. Then will come the World Games in Puerto Rico in June and possibly a trip to the middle east in July for the World Military Championships.

But first things first. Terra Linda High gets the action Thursday at 8 p.m.

BILL SANDIFER
Rejects WFL bid

Sandifer Happy To Join 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — It didn't sound all that impressive when the San Francisco 49ers said yesterday that they signed their second draft pick, Bill Sandifer of UCLA.

It's more impressive to recall that the 275-pound defensive tackle was the 10th player chosen in the National Football League draft since San Francisco had first-round picks 9 and 10.

Sandifer, also a choice of Southern California in the new World Football League, said that "the World Football League made me a flat offer but I really wanted to play in the NFL and the 49ers have treated me great."

He said he thought his Bruin teammates, James McAlister and Kermit Johnson, "were idiotic to sign with the WFL before they talked to NFL people. They've already bought expensive cars and what with income tax and all, the money won't last long.

"I hope the WFL gets off the ground but I'm not sure it will."

Sandifer noted that he might move right into the 49ers' front line but said he would be willing to sit on the bench for a season or two. Starter Charlie Krueger is near or at the end of

WICKERT SIGNS WITH DOLPHINS

"I'm really happy about it," said Greenbrae's Tom Wickert this morning after signing a one-year contract with the National Football League Miami Dolphins.

Financial terms were undisclosed, but Wickert pointed out: "There are two or three incentive clauses." The Dolphins' ninth-round choice will begin trying to land an offensive lineman spot on Miami's roster when the rookie camp opens March 1 in Miami. It runs through March 3. The 6-foot-4, 244-pound Wickert was an offensive tackle at Washington State University. He signed the contact last night in San Francisco.

"I always wanted to play in the NFL," he continued, "and I'm going down there with the idea that I'm going to make the 40-man team and play on specialty teams next season. I want to be a part of the best offensive line in pro football."

ELDER, HARRIS LEAD

Miller Trails But Is Tourney Choice

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The scoreboard here says Labron Harris and Lee Elder are the co-second round leaders in the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic today but logic indicates Johnny Miller is the man to beat.

Miller, who made everyone stand up and take notice when he opened the 1974 Professional Golfers Association tour by sweeping the first three events, starts today's third round in the Hope event a shot behind Harris and Elder, who lead the pack with 36-hole scores of four under par 140.

But Elder still has to play Eldorado and La Quinta while Harris tackles Bermuda Dunes and Eldorado. Most here feel Eldorado and Bermuda Dunes are the tougher of the four courses they use in the 90-hole hope.

Miller, shooting to top the $100,000 mark for the year in only the sixth event, opened with an even par 72 in the wind at Bermuda Wednesday and came back with a three under 69 in the calm at Eldorado yesterday.

"I had my game under full control for the first time in two weeks," Miller said of his play yesterday. "Still, I haven't putted well, but it's coming back and I'm due to shoot better. These desert courses are tailor made for my play.

Harris and Elder, neither of whom ever has won a tournament, meanwhile are plodding along and hoping for lightning to strike. Neither putted all that well in the second round but both played well enough otherwise with Harris carding a two under 70 at Indian Wells and Elder a one under 71 at Bermuda.

In the third round today, Harris plays at Bermuda while Elder goes to Eldorado. Miller, who is tied for second with Mike Reasor, Johnny Lister, John Mahaffey, Grier Jones and Hubert Green, goes to La Quinta.

"I played better in the second round than I did in the first," Harris said, "but I didn't putt as well and I don't know why."

He had an eagle on the 18th at Indian Wells plus three birdies and three bogies. Elder, still bothered by a sore wrist, continued missing short putts but his orn game was good.

Fish Derby Leaders

Sam Crawford with a 114-pound sturgeon and Pete Baugalio with a 24-pound, 3-ounce striped bass are the current leaders in the third week of the Lord of the Sea fishing derby. The derby, run by Loch Lomond Live Bait and Tackle, ends Feb. 24.

Seals Try For Third Win In Row

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals try for an almost unheard of third National Hockey League win in a row tonight at 8 o'clock when Buffalo skates on the Oakland Arena ice tonight.

Strangely enough, although Buffalo brings one of hockey's better squads here, the Seals have always had good luck against the Sabres. They show a 10-6-5 all-time mark against Buffalo and this year have taken two of their 11 wins from Buffalo, including their lone road win.

A long-lost Seal should return tonight when Bob Stewart, who missed the last 20 games with a groin pull, probably comes back. If he can play, it will mean Brent Meeke will be returned to the Salt Lake City farm team. Meeke has commuted between the two leagues in recent weeks to help fill out the roster for the injury-riddled Seals.

Nevada Campuses Sports Aides Meet

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — University of Nevada administrators, coaches and officials of the athletic department from both the Reno and Las Vegas campuses gathered here for a talk.

Bill Ireland, UNLV athletic director, insisted the meeting was a routine one although there have been reports that Nevada-Las Vegas would be the target of a National Collegiate Athletic Association investigation.

WFL Owner Arnold Is A Busy Man

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Don't tell the moguls of the National Football League but Memphis is burning the candle at both ends.

"This simply means that we are talking. We have not reached any agreement," said City Park Commission Chairman E. H. Ferguson yesterday when the commission voted to dicker with the fledgling World Football League.

The commission agreed 4-1 to open talks with Memphis WFL franchise owner Steve Arnold of Corte Madera over the rental of 50,000-seat Memphis Memorial Stadium this summer.

The commission is expected to vote at its March 7 meeting whether or not to lease the stadium to the WFL on Wednesday and Thursday nights starting in July. But the commission made clear yesterday that any such lease would not exclude a later deal with the established NFL.

Meanwhile:

—Arnold is dickering with financial interests in Portland, Ore., on moving the franchise there if he feels rejected by Memphis.

—The NFL is considering expansion and Memphis is reportedly near the top of its list.

"It will be hard to predict what kind of decision the NFL might make this month or in July," said Commissioner John E. Leake Jr., a former Oklahoma football player who offered yesterday's resolution to negotiate with Arnold. "I think we ought to make a decision for Memphis, not on outside forces."

But commission member John Malmo said he is opposed to "signing anything with Mr. Arnold or the WFL," especially with the NFL possibly just about to knock on the door of this city of 850,000.

Memphis Mayor Wyeth Chandler has already said he would try to block any stadium agreement with the WFL pending a decision on expansion by the NFL.

"I am anxious to go ahead, like Mr. Leake," said Malmo yesterday. "But if I were a potential investor in an NFL team in Memphis, it would certainly dampen my enthusiasm to think that some other team might have a one or two-year head start on me."

Arnold was not at yesterday's commission meeting.

New Faces, But Same Old Bruins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The more things change with the Boston Bruins, the more they remain the same.

The cast of characters is changing but the team is still solidly entrenched in first place.

It seemed as if the Bruins were in trouble this week in their battle for Montreal for the National Hockey League East Division crown.

After all, they've got injury problems and Montreal was playing Minnesota Wednesday while the Bruins were taking on St. Louis last night. A Montreal win and a St. Louis loss would cut the Bruins' lead to just four points.

But it went the other way and the Bruins are up by eight points—76 to 68. While Montreal lost Wednesday night, the Bruins turned back St. Louis 5-3 last night as Gregg Sheppard set up two second period goals within a 34-second span.

St. Louis was leading 2-1 in the second period when Boston scored three quick goals.

Wayne Cashman got the first at 8:00 when he batted in a Gary Doak blast from the blue line. Two minutes later, Sheppard fed Fred O'Donnell in the slot and, after O'Donnell's shot bounced off St. Louis goalie John Davidson, Carol Vadnais picked up the rebound and shot it home. Thirty four seconds later, Sheppard fed John Bucyk on one side of the goal and Bucyk circled the back of the goal and stuffed the puck past Davidson to give the Bruins a 4-2 lead.

Off the ice, the Bruins made two moves last night. They traded center Chris Oddleifson, O'Donnell and the rights to Mike Walton to the Vancouver Canucks for right winger Bobby Schmautz.

They also called up defenseman Al Simmons from their American Hockey League Boston Braves yesterday to fill in a vacant spot left by injuries to Bobby Orr and Darryl Edestrand.

ROUGH WORK — Philadelphia's Tom Bladon was checked to the ice last night by Pittsburgh's Jean Pronovost (19), but still reached out in an effort to get the puck. The Flyers won the National Hockey League game in Philadelphia, 5-4. (UPI Telephoto)

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

'Must Game' For UCLA Tonight

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA has a "must game" tonight and Coach John Wooden may be a little worried.

The No. 1 ranked Bruins, seeking an eighth consecutive NCAA title, must win their own Pacific Eight Conference title and tonight they go against Oregon, which is tied for the conference lead at 5-0.

"I can't recall having won a game so handily and having had such a bad taste in my mouth afterward," Wooden said of last year's meeting.

UCAL will be facing one of the toughest defenses in the West.

"We call it aggressive defense," says Oregon Coach Dick Harter. "We do anything we can to win ... as long as it's within the rules. I have yet to see a rule that says players can't dive for the ball."

In Thursday night action, Tickey Burden's 26 points helped Utah upset 15th-ranked Texas-El Paso 73-72, Leonard Gray had 19 points and 10 rebounds to lead 14th-ranked Long Beach State to a 64-48 rout of San Diego State and New Mexico State upended No. 13 Louisville 76-73.

Elsewhere, Rutgers, led by Mike Dabney's 24 points, rolled past West Virginia 80-73 and John Hurley scored six of his eight points in overtime as Manhattan downed St. Joseph's 80-73. Dallas Smith's two free throws with 23 seconds left lifted West Texas State to a 58- 53 victory over St. Louis.

Other Pac-8 tests tonight find Oregon State at USC while Stanford and Cal play host to Washington and Washington State, respectively.

In the West Coast Athletic Conference, University of San Francisco leads at 6-1. St. Mary's (4-2) calls on Seattle (5-1) tonight and Nevada-Las Vegas (4-2) hosts Nevada-Reno.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, massive Leonard Gray hit 19 points and freshman Clifton Pondexter had 18 as 14th-ranked Long Beach State pretty well broke things open last night by swamping San Diego State 64-48 to run its record to 5-0.

But Pacific, fighting to land in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney in place of ineligible Long Beach, ran its conference mark to 3-2 and season's mark to 13-6 with a 72- 64 win over determined San Jose State. John Errecart had 18 for the Tigers.

Los Angeles State also has lost two while Santa Barbara and Fresno State have lost three each in a tight race for runner-up spot and the NCAA berth.

In other action along the Coast last night, Paul Caldwell and Alvin Hardin combined for 48 points as Whittier bounced Cal Poly Pomona 93-80.

66 thumping of Novato Tuesday. The Pirates face a San Marin squad (2-7) which has been playing to the maximum of its ability recently, with two victories and two near-upsets in its last five games.

Novato (4-5) certainly leads the league in surprises, positive and negative. After a brilliant upset of Redwood last Friday — their first victory over the Giants in 10 years — the Hornets reversed form completely Tuesday in a 21-point loss to Drake.

Terra Linda (1-8) has lost six straight, but its last victory came over Novato back on Jan. 15, 49-43.

No Nix On Richard For Opening Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The baseball commissioner's office denied today published reports the nix had been put on President Richard M. Nixon's throwing out the traditional first ball of the baseball season.

Joe Reichler, baseball's director of public relations, emphatically denied the report the president's esteem had sunk so low, he was not even invited to throw out this season's opening pitch.

"We'd be positively delighted and honored to have the president attend any game, season opener or otherwise," Reichler said. "Actually, up to now, the commissioner has always invited the president to the All-Star game and the World Series.

"But, in the past, it was the club which extended the invitation to the president, not the commissioner, for the opening game."

It was pointed out Washington no longer has a ball club to invite the president.

However, Cincinnati general manager Bob Howsam has made a move toward detente by extending an invitation to the president to throw out the first ball of the Reds' season.

USC's Chapman Plays Tonight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — USC forward-center Clint Chapman, who has missed three games with a knee injury, was expected to see limited action tonight when the Trojans host Pacific Eight rival Oregon State.

Chapman, the Trojan's third-leading scorer with a 10.3 average, has been sidelined with strained ligaments.

"I think he will play," said Coach Bob Boyd. "As to how much, I'm not sure. He probably won't start, though."

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

San Pablo Bay Action Slow

Fishing in San Pablo Bay is still considered as slow. I checked a couple of sturgeon during the week — one was a big surprise.

Bill Stein of Richmond was bottom fishing outside the Golden Gate near the north tower. He was using squid for bait when a lunker sturgeon weighing 130 pounds latched on. It's a rarity to catch a sturgeon outside the Gate, but his catch might be just the tipoff to where the sturgeon are now feeding. Herring are still spawning at that location so fishing at the Sausalito area near Lime Point might be the answer.

HAVE YOU BEEN wondering just how the trophy trout program is working? At Lake Berryessa, the development of trophy trout has been experimented with the past few years. Other lakes also being planted with trophy trout are lakes Isabella, Pine Flat, Merle Collins and Shasta.

At Berryessa, 145,000 hatchery fish are planted each spring when the threadfin shad are spawning and their eggs are hatching. At this time of year, the shad are about 30 feet deep at Berryessa. The trout go to this depth and lower and stay throughout the summer, feeding on the plentiful shad and growing rapidly. At this depth they are relatively safe from anglers and they grow to a pound or larger in six months. In the fall and winter when the water gets colder, the shad move to the surface and the trout follow them.

THERE, THE LARGE rainbow trout look like sharks cruising through the schools of shad. Fishermen call them "chompers" from the noise they make as they "chomp" on the luckless shad. At this time a large number of trout are caught by fishermen; the survivors may spend another summer in the depths, growing to a weight of three to five pounds. Most strains of trout, however, become sexually mature by this time and try to go up the inlet streams to spawn. This is a time when the creeks are drying up, so very few of these fish survive.

The objective of the Trophy Trout Program is to find a strain which does not mature so fast and will delay its spawning run at least until the following winter. Such a strain will use its energy in growth and will be able to return after spawning. It can easily attain weights of five pounds or more and become a "Trophy Trout."

CALIFORNIA'S GAME bird industry — game bird breeders and operators of shooting preserves — makes a major contribution to outdoor recreation in the state by providing increasing hunting opportunity: supplying the birds, the habitat and the place to hunt for many thousands of persons.

The progressive lengthening of seasons on the clubs has helped provide critically required opportunity for an ever increasing number of upland game bird hunters.

The Department of Fish and Game has an interest in game bird breeders and club operators not only because it is charged with their regulation, but because of what they do for sportsmen.

TO GET AN IDEA of the scope of the industry we have only to look at the number of domestically reared pheasants and chukars released on licensed clubs.

The final tally for the 1972-73 season showed a total of 328,201 pheasants released on the clubs. The figure would have been even higher except that an outbreak of Newcastle disease hampered operations in southern California.

Hunters spent 109,740 days of hunting on the clubs and took 237,737 pheasants. On the basis of the cost to the hunter, the value of these birds was $1,901,896.

Using the same scale, and considering all pheasants which legally could have been taken on the clubs, we had birds worth $2,453,712 available to club hunters.

THIS DOES NOT take into consideration the 28,756 chukars, the 1,989 bobwhite quail or the 376 turkeys which club operators released for the benefit of their hunters. Certainly the value of these birds was significant.

A total of 209 clubs were licensed in California during the 1972-73 season, and club operations involved a total of 188,264 acres.

In addition to the pheasant shooting program, more than 70,000 pheasants, chukars and bobwhite and coturnix quail are used in field trials and dog training activities.

The department contributes to the coffers of private game breeders with purchases of slightly more than 30,000 ring-necked pheasants and several thousand exotic game birds each year.

IN ADDITION, the industry produces many thousands of game birds for table use in homes and in restaurants.

Then there are the more than 1,100 game bird breeders in California who are licensed and raise birds as a hobby or for other purposes aside from their use on shooting preserves.

A LITTLE BEHIND AT THE START

Jockey Gene St. Leon did not get out of the gate quite as fast as his horse did yesterday in the first race at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla. St. Leon was unhurt by his tumble, but his pride may have been wounded by the fact that his mount, Flying Albert, went on to an unofficial second-place finish behind Butter Bean without him. QB Carter Joins Chicago Of WFL

CHICAGO (UPI) — Virgil Carter, an outspoken quarterback once sold by the Chicago Bears for a $100 waiver price, has been added to the incipient roster of the Chicago Fire of the World Football League.

Fire owner Tom Origer proudly announced his new acquisition at a morning news conference yesterday.

Four hours later, Bears Coach Abe Gibron took over the same space to announce his National Football League team has signed Dave Gallagher, a 245-pound All-America defensive tackle from Michigan and the team's second draft choice.

Carter said the deal he was offered by Origer made it worth his while to jump from the NFL, where he had played for Cincinnati and San Diego after leaving the Bears four years ago.

Carter left Chicago in 1969 after he described Coach Jim Dooley as "chicken bleep" and later said the same term applied to owner George Halas. Halas sold his contract for $100.

The Bears expressed no desire to see Carter again but they did express interest in another athlete lured into the Fire house.

He is Mark Kellar, the national collegiate rushing champion from Northern Illinois who was signed by Origer. He also discussed terms with the Minnesota Vikings.

Also on hand for the Fire announcement were Isaac Jackson, Kansas State running back, who was signed along with Kellar, and end Jim Seymour, whose Fire contract had been previously announced.

MORE THAN A BOXER

Ali Is Symbol Of Kid Around Corner

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Muhammad Ali turns out to be pretty much the same way he advertises himself on the boxcover, a super salesman, masterful boxer and not really that bad a puncher either, but then there's the other side of him, his cerebral side, and it's here where you sometimes find those big loopholes in his logic.

I know I have.

What I'm saying is that when Muhammad Ali shifts into high gear inside the ring or turns on the charm outside it, he probably has more personal appeal than any professional athlete around today, for me as well as countless others, but, unfortunately, too often that's where it all stops.

Ali has said over and over again he can influence people because of the stature he enjoys all over the world today.

He admits the principal reason he enjoys this stature is because of his accomplishments in the ring, and that makes him two out of two because he's 100 per cent right again.

But here's where he gets a little carried away.

"I'm not just a boxer," he says, "I'm more than that. I'm like a country all by myself. Wherever I go—Algeria, Britain, Egypt, Germany, Indonesia, Italy, Japan—people come out to see me and listen to what I have to say.

Boxing Symbol Muhammad Ali

(UPI Telephoto)

What Muhammad Ali glosses over or conveniently forgets is that he is a symbol of the kid around the corner, the one with the limited privileges and education who made good and became the king of the hill. In his own mind, he has the idea he's the only one who ever did anything like this, but he's wrong. So very wrong.

Boxing is full of prime examples of those who emerged from far more meager backgrounds to become world champions.

I can hear Ali now. None of 'em ever became as big as me.

Okay, then, how about Babe Ruth? Or El Cordobes, celebrated and lionized the world over although his start in life was such that he never learned to read or write? Or Pele, the Brazilian soccer superstar, another who came straight off the streets.

I wouldn't even debate with Ali about these men because he has a one-track mind on the subject and the one individual he obviously enjoys talking about most is himself. So let's talk about Muhammad Ali. Let's talk about him when he was a kid.

Cassius Clay, as he was known then, tells me he used to steal things from stores. The fact that what he took were "little things" like fruit, candy and the like doesn't make him a criminal, but neither does it make him a hero. Not in my book, anyway.

O.J. Simpson talks about how he and his buddies used to steal cars in San Francisco when they were kids. Robert Redford, the actor, dealt in smaller automotive parts. He says he only used to steal hubcaps.

It's funny Robert Redford should mention that because not so long ago, you'd never guess what some kids stole off the wheels of one of Muhammad Ali's cars? That's right, hubcaps. All four of them. Since Ali drives high-priced imported cars and since each hubcap stolen from him went for $125 a copy, the whole thing came to $500.

"It isn't worth thinking about anymore," he says. "Besides, I've lost much more in my lifetime. I once had a car stolen in Chicago. It was a Cadillac, and I didn't have any insurance on it either. No, it never turned up again. The way I look at it is it's better for some kids to be stealing those hubcaps from me than to be killing each other or taking dope. I look at it another way also. If I learn from an experience, then I have gained something. What did I gain from those kids stealing my hubcaps? I learned to put locks on 'em."

Maybe that's the way Muhammad Ali sees it, but I look at it differently.

The way I look at it if Ali has all that influence he claims to have, particularly among the young people, he should go among them and drive home how wrong it is to steal ANYTHING from ANYONE, whether it's apples, oranges or candy from the corner storekeeper or hubcaps off an affluent fighter's car.

Porsche owners hold on to their cars for years. They're loyal owners. As a result Porsche re-sale values have always been high. Present conditions have increased demand and pushed values even higher. Obviously, your investment is well protected. Gas consumption is as low as 29 mpg. And that's getting to be very important. These days, a Porsche is a good idea.

African Art On Display At Library

All are on display through the end of this month at the Civic Center branch of the Marin County Library. They come from the collection of Dr. Katherine Leicester of Greenbrae who recently returned from serving three years with a Quaker mission at Kaimosi Friends Hospital in Tiriki, Kenya.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Internal Revenue Service May Prepare Your Return For You

If you want the Internal Revenue Service to figure your tax for you, there is an easy way to get it done and you don't have to pay anyone for preparing your tax return.

Simply get a short Form 1040A, fill in your name, address, social security number and occupation, your spouse's social security number and occupation. Check off your filing status and fill in the number of exemptions you have. Add up your salary, wages, tips and other compensation from your W-2's and enter that on line 9. Attach Copy B of your Form W-2, and if for any reason, you don't have one of these, attach an explanation as to why you don't have it, who your employer was and what you think you made and what you think your withholding was on that particular job. Write in your dividends, less the exclusion of $100 for a single person. ($200 for a married couple, provided the dividends are joint). Write in your interest and that's as far as you go here.

Now skip over to page two and fill in your credit for contributions to political candidates on line 18. Fill in on line 20 the total amount of income tax withheld and your excess FICA tax and the 1973 taxes paid on your estimate, if any.

That's all you do.

Now, ship it off to the Internal Revenue Service and they will compute your tax and send you your refund or send you a bill for payment.

Be sure to read the instructions for 1040A to see if you can use this form. Not everyone can.

Market Sluggish In Opening Trade

Concern over inflation, the energy crisis, the oil embargo and Watergate kept investors on the sidelines.

Early today, Cleveland Trust Co. reduced its prime lending rate a half point to 9 per cent, effective Monday. But Wall Street has lately been uninspired by the trend to lower intersest rates, a favorable development which apparently has been overshadowed by other concerns.

Gold mining stocks showed the only solid gains in the early going, benefitting from further rises in bullion prices on foreign markets. Dome Mines rose 5 ¼, ASA Ltd. 4, Campbell Red interest rates, a favorable deing 2 ¼.

But glamors declined as a group, with Xerox, Burroughs and Walt Disney each dropping at least a point. ARA Services, reporting only a slight improvement in earnings for the first quarter ended Dec. 28, fell 2 ¼.

Pittston Co. led the actives, and rose 1 ¼ to 28 ½ on 119,900 shares, including a 100,000-share block crossing at 27 ½.

Stocks on the American Exchange were mixed in light activity. Leading the actives, Houston Oil & Minerals fell 1 ⅜ to 34 ½ on 32,200 shares.

INVESTING

Reserve Fund Is Explored

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have tried to get more information on Reserve Fund recently mentioned in your column. Could you give me their address? — E.B. & L.H.

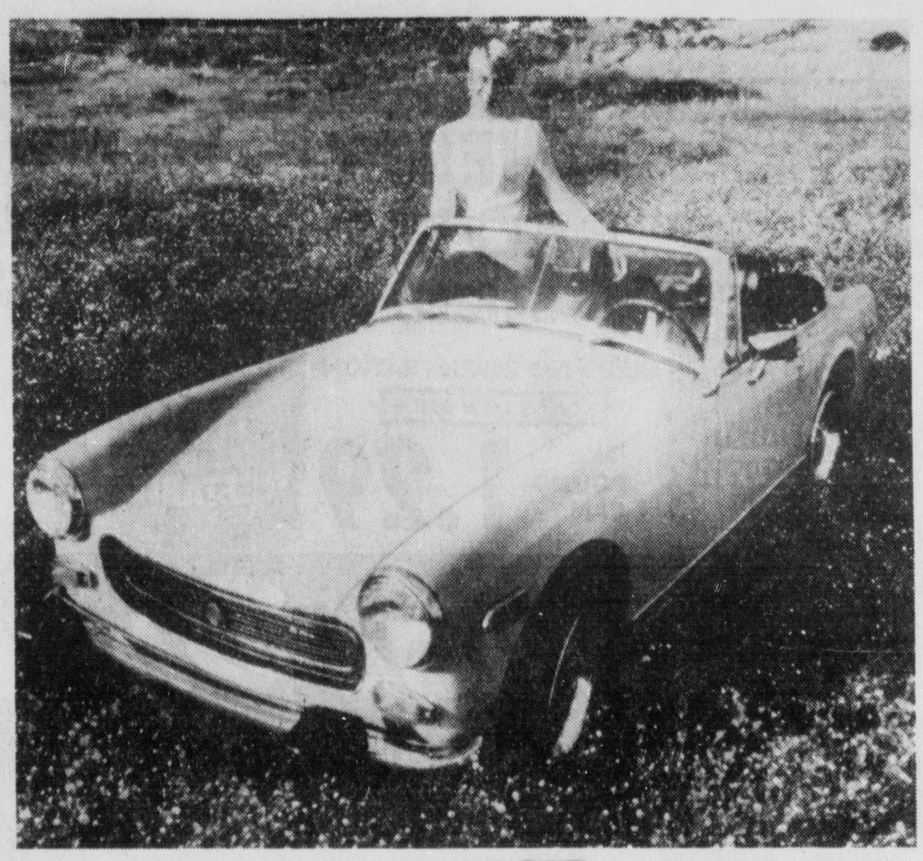
Would you discuss the risk factor in a fund such as Reserve Fund which I hold? — G.K.

A. This no-load fund is located at 1301 Avenue of the Americas, N.Y.C. 10019. Operations began in 1973, and this is one of the few funds which showed a gain in net asset value (+7.6 per cent) for the year. Assets, which consist of short-term, high-quality debt issues such as U.S. Treasury bills, bank CDs and Bankers Acceptances, now total $18 million. Interest rates on these are currently close to record levels, a situation which can change very rapidly. Thus, while your invested capital is not endangered, the return on your investment will vary according to changing money market conditions.

Q. Some years ago my dad bought stock of Hiller Helicopters which was bought by Fairchild. How can I find out if he still has stock in it? — J.H.

A. Between 1958, when Hiller Helicopter changed its name to Hiller Aircraft, and 1964, when Fairchild acquired the business, several other changes occurred. In 1960 Electric Auto Lite took over Hiller by a 1-for-3 share exchange. Thus your father would then have held one-third as many shares in Electric Auto Lite as he previously held in Hiller. Then in 1963, Electric Auto merged with Merganthaler Linotype to become Eltra Corp. Autolite shareholders were given 1.88 shares of Eltra $1.40 cumulative, convertible preferred for each common share held. Of this particular issue only 735 shares remained outstanding as of Sept. 30, 1973.

The 1964 acquisition by Fairchild of the Hiller Aircraft division was for cash and would not have affected your father's status as an Eltra preferred shareholder, if he still held these securities at that time. Thus your inquiry should be addressed to: W.T. Reynolds, Secretary of Eltra Corp., 2 Pennsylvania Plaza, N.Y.C. 10001.



MG MIDGET

The 1974 MG Midget convertible averages 22.5 miles per gallon in urban driving tests conducted by the federal Environmental Protection Agency. This and an under-$3,000 price tag make the Midget a popular sports car. The 12-foot long Midget has sculptured mag-style steel wheels and radial ply tires as standard equipment. British Leyland Motors also produces the slightly larger and more powerful MGB convertible, the best selling imported sports car in the United States. Local dealer is Annex British Cars of San Rafael.

Some Oil Companies Take New Look At The Credit Card System

NEW YORK (AP) — Some oil companies are cutting back on credit extended to motorists because the companies don't need the business anymore.

These days of gasoline shortages and long lines at the service station have also brought high profits to the oil companies. And the high profits and assured sales of all the gasoline they can produce have prompted some companies to stop promoting their own credit cards or to tighten up on credit requirements.

Other firms have stopped credit arrangements with other oil companies, or with banks and corporations which offer all-purpose travel cards.

"We just don't need to go after the costly customer with credit," said Bob Jenkins, head of marketing services for the Continental Oil Co., which retails gasoline under the Conoco sign. "The need for expanding credit business no longer exists."

Jenkins said Continental had "substantially slowed down its credit card activity" because of gasoline supply restrictions and government regulations which prevent a "pass-through" to customers in the cost of doing business.

Mobil Oil, the nation's second largest oil producer, is still accepting new accounts, but is tightening the criteria, said a spokesman. "We only want the really good accounts," he said.

Gulf Oil, which has never developed a broad credit program, is "going to look at the cards a little bit harder than before," a spokesman said. In contrast a spokesman for Exxon Corp., the nation's biggest oil firm, said there had been no change in policy.

"We're not discouraging the use of credit cards," the Exxon official said. "Other cards are still acceptable."

For many firms it seems the first step in cutting back on credit is termination of exchanges with credit companies or other oil firms.

Starting Jan. 11, Marathon Oil Co. no longer honored bank and entertainment cards such as BankAmericard, American Express, and the like.

"First of all there are the cost and handling charges," a Marathon spokesman said. "In addition we've found that the person who uses these cards is a casual customer. We want to stretch our supplies for our constant clients."
